BABY'S LIBRARY

BILLIE BROWNIE had gone again to call on Charles Norman. Charles Norman was now about a year old—well, he was a little more than a year old, and strange as it may seem he was collecting books.

"I'm going to have a big library," he told Billie Brownie. "Of course, I won't bother about reading now, and then I'll have to be read to before I'll read to myself. At present I'm too busy with other matters."

"What other matters?" Billie Brownie inquired.

"Well, I'm interested in drinks of water and drinks of milk and rides in ... he is all of four weeks younger.

"Of course, I cry at times. Then my mother soothes me, but my daddy speaks to me sternly in a very manlike way. When I don't cry my daddy keeps calling me, 'You darling little thing,' over and over again.

"So that by way of variety and change and to have him say something else to me, I cry once in a while. That's one of my reasons, anyway. Another is that it is expected of me to cry just a little bit.

"But I don't cry much. It's a waste of time, and as I told you of all the other things I have to keep me busy, you will realize that I haven't much time in which to cry.

"I was going to tell you about my library. Well, as I told you at one time, I have any number of beautiful garments—just quantities of clothes. If it were not that I am so busy and that a baby would be out of place keeping a store, I really believe I'd set ...

... do 2 to it to make it presentable for Broadway. For a long time we worked over it, putting in more crooks, more detectives, more heroes, more shots until the stage was reached when the opinion became unanimous that to leave the play alone would be the best policy. It has been left alone ever since.—JOHN HOWARD LAWSON."

TODAY: Mr. Lawson is one of the most discussed dramatists in this country. A few seasons ago his first play to reach Broadway, "Roger Bloomer," was produced and at once caused a flurry of agitated criticism, due to its total unconventionality. "Roger Bloomer" ran ten days on Broadway, then a band of intellectuals took it over to Greenwich village where it played ten weeks before it went into seclusion. Later it was published in book form.

Mr. Lawson's second play to be produced was "Processional." This work was given its debut by the Theatre guild and never was there so sharply divided or more violent criticism known in New York than that which greeted "Processional." Half the leading metropolitan critics said Mr. Lawson was a genius; the other half said something was wrong. One even questioned Mr. Lawson's reason. The audiences, too, were equally divided, but the outstanding fact was that those who liked "Processional" idealized it and lifted it to the highest pinnacle of art; while those who didn't like it hated it most decisively.

"Processional" was a play that told a story of the life of miners in West Virginia, but was set in a framework of jazz, thus striving to weld the inner drama of American life with the reckless flippancy and gaiety of the jazz years.

Ulster County Chapter Receives Word From National Headquarters That Scenes in Stricken Areas Are Pathetic—Local Chapter Gets Additional Contributions for Relief Work.

The Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross has received a letter from George E. Scott of the central committee of the American Red Cross, National Headquarters, Washington, D. C., stating that the $3,000,000 mark in the $5,000,000 quota sought by the organization for the relief of the stricken sufferers in the lower Mississippi valley region was expected to be reached very soon. The various sections of the country gladly accepted the quotas placed upon them. The chapters in Florida were glad of the opportunity to manifest their appreciation of the splendid work done for them by the Red Cross during the recent Florida hurricane.

There are approximately 2,000,000 refugees under the care of the Red Cross at present. Of that number 140,000 are in 42 concentration camps in various parts in the seven flooded states. The number of refugees is expected to increase by vast numbers. Several thousand sufferers are still waiting on high places for rescue boats to come to their assistance.

Southern Arkansas is at present the center of rescue and relief work. The situation at this point is increasingly acute. Arkansas City is flooded. Houses are floating. McGehee is being evacuated. A chapter has been arranged at Monticello to take care of the people who are abandoning the city. The number of refugees to reach Monticello at the last check-up totalled 4,500. Cots, tents and supplies are being rushed there with the greatest rapidity possible.

Fifteen rescue boats have been dispatched up to the Arkansas river from Vicksburg to aid in emergency work. Thirteen hundred refugees are now at Stuttgart and 1,000 at England.

In the Mississippi the concentration camps are being filled with what seems countless numbers of sufferers, yet they must be cared for. Leland is completely cut off with 7,000 persons in the town, including 4,000 refugees. The Red Cross is mustering all small boats to rescue from houses and to evacuate. Food supplies have to be shipped to the stricken area and in this a great problem is presented.

Scenes in the stricken areas are most pathetic and tug at the hearts of the weary rescuers. Those whose life savings and homes are in immediate danger face the grave situation in a manner which provokes great sympathy. With the waters rushing in upon cities and small communities, the residents make efforts to save some valued possession which in vain they are forced to leave to the ravages of the waters and wait for rescuers to be taken to concentration camps, sometimes even without sufficient clothing to protect them from the elements.

Saugerties Workers Busy.

Boys' Week Begins In Church Services

Nearly All City Churches to Devote Some Part of Services to Boys' Welfare and Importance—Union Service in Fair Street Reformed Church.

Observance of Boys' Week, arranged by the Kingston Rotary Club, will begin on Sunday when in nearly all of the churches of the city some part of at least one of the services will be especially devoted to the welfare and importance of boys. Several of the uptown churches will unite in a special evening service in the Fair Street Reformed Church in order that the service may be broadcast by WDBZ. This will be the first broadcast of an evening service by the station and it is believed there will be many listeners. The Fair Street Reformed Church is the only church in Kingston that has installed the necessary wiring and equipment for broadcasting, although others are at liberty to do so and share in the use of the station.

There will be some form of observance of Boys' Week every day next week. The big school program will be at the High School on Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock when "Chick" Meehan, head coach of New York University, will be the speaker. There will be music by the high school orchestra and a program of music, entertainment and athletics. The speaking will be in the high school auditorium and all boys of all schools, public, parochial or private, are invited and will be welcome. The purpose, as in all the exercises of Boys' Week, is to impress on all boys that the men are really behind them and interested in them.

In arranging the program for the week the Rotary Club was careful to omit the silly features, such as a "boy mayor" and "boy alderman", often included in Boys' Week programs, reasoning that slapstick comedy and sickly sentimentality detracted from the effect of the event.

Fake Solicitors For Red Cross Aid

The sheriff's office was notified Thursday afternoon that persons representing themselves as solicitors for the Red Cross flood fund had made their appearance in Woodstock and were attempting to solicit funds without authority. Sheriff Rice immediately started an investigation and went to the scene where it was learned that the solicitors had left town just ahead of the sheriff.

It was learned they had departed toward Saugerties and word was sent to that village where the State Troopers were notified to look out for the illegal solicitors. The Saugerties police were also notified to keep a watch for strange solicitors who might seek funds.

However, there were no subscriptions solicited by the illegal solicitors in Saugerties and evidently they have departed. The amount collected in Woodstock was small.

People desiring to make a contribution to the flood fund should make sure they are giving to proper solicitors and if in doubt the contribution should be sent in direct to the treasurer, E. E. Ougheltree at the court house in Kingston. It is not necessary to wait for a solicitor to make an individual call.

Dying Gangster Under Arrest

New York, April 29 (AP).—A dying gangster was under arrest today in the prison ward at Bellevue Hospital charged with murder for his victory in a toe and toe gun duel with a rival gunman.

Timothy "Chuck" Looman, 22, bootlegger and cop fighter, dropped dead in front of St. Bernard's Church in West Fourteenth street last night, the victim of what police regard as an agreement to "shoot it out" with James O'Brien, 24, also known to police as a gangster.

Police said both men had been engaged in bootlegging and had criminal records. They believe the pair met by appointment to settle a private quarrel.

Canned Goods Social.

There will be a canned goods social given at the parsonage of the Franklin Street A. M. E. Zion Church tonight at 8 o'clock for the benefit of the springtime bazaar to be held May 4, 5 and 6 at the Odd Fellows' Hall, Cornell street. The president requests that there be a full attendance and that those who come and those who cannot, bring or send something in the line of canned goods or other saleable articles.

Delay in Blasting Of Mississippi

Engineers Planting Dynamite Unable To Complete Task at Noon—High Officials Circulate About River.

On the Mississippi levee, near Violet, La., April 29 (AP).—More than an hour's delay in the blasting of the crevasse on the Mississippi river levee south of here was made necessary today because the engineers planting the dynamite were unable to complete their task at noon, which had been set as the zero hour.

Officers of the Louisiana National Guard patrolling a part of St. Bernard and Plaquemines parishes, to be inundated in an effort to save New Orleans from the great flood, announced that the levee would be broken between 1 and 2 p. m.

Coast patrol boats and craft bearing Governor Simpson and others of the official party circled about the river on the point selected for the break, patiently waiting for the signal from the engineers' tug.

Great Precautions.

Extraordinary precautions were taken to prevent accident and insure the safety of all those who might be within the restricted area. Orders issued from the first state military district provided that after the engineers tug had signalled that preparations for the blasting were completed an interval of fifteen minutes would be allowed for the removal of troops from the danger zone and for a seaplane to ascertain if the area was clear of civilians.

The plane's signal of "all's clear" was three white sheets of paper to be released at short intervals. That, too, was the signal for the firing of the blasts by means of an electric "gun" operated on the state engineers' tug, thus releasing the waters which eventually were expected to inundate about 800 square miles before draining off into the gulf.

Besides the engineers' tug, more than half a dozen other craft were permitted within restricted area—the Alexander, carrying Governor Simpson and his party, the Commanche carrying newspaper correspondents, the Magnolia carrying an official party, including Major General Jadwin chief of army engineers; a scout boat and several coast guard cutters for patrol duty.

Reluctant to Move.

State and city have guaranteed all of the residents compensation for the damage the waters may do their property, but even in the face of this they temporarily gave up their homes with reluctance if not with stronger feelings. Some of the inhabitants of the two parishes refused to leave, preferring to remain and take their chances with the flood waters than to become refugees in a camp for six weeks or more.

While a deliberate break was ordered in lower Louisiana, the Mississippi river higher up was smashing at the levees with such force that a large army of men worked night and day to strengthen those on the west bank in the hope that they could withstand the great flood crest bearing down toward Greenville today and augmented below by the return of the flood waters to the parent stream from the Mississippi delta.

Northern Louisiana was being inundated in places by waters flowing southward from breaks in the Arkansas river levees in southeastern Arkansas as well as that surging through crevasses in dykes along the Red river and smaller streams.

John Boughton of R. F. D. THE WHY OF THE Y. W. AS OTHERS SEE IT

Dr. Mary Gage-Day: The Kingston Young Women's Christian Association affords a place where any girl or woman, regardless of sect or creed, can secure wholesome recreation, healthful exercise and inspiring companionship. Because this is true, all who care for the future of Kingston, must feel impelled to support the Y. W. C. A.

The Hon. G. D. B. Hasbrouck: There is no influence in the modern social American throb that helps to stabilize the young woman in the maintenance of high ideals in working for a living and in tackling "the unfinished job" like the Young Women's Christian Association.

Kattermann & Mitchell Co.: It is our opinion that the Y. W. C. A. is a necessary asset to all modern communities and every industrial concern should give it hearty support.

Detours Bad On Ellenville Road

Travelers Report Unsatisfactory Conditions in Town of Rochester Where State Highway Is Under Reconstruction.

Construction has been commenced on the Kingston-Ellenville highway through the town of Rochester and those who desire to travel between this city and Ellenville past the construction would do well to travel by aeroplane. The highway through the construction points is in very bad condition and the detour provided to the west is in equally bad condition. The detour which leaves the main highway to the west is narrow, rutted and of bad clay, especially in wet weather.

At present work has been undertaken by the contractors, the Dele Engineering Company, on the hill from the Sylvester Hasbrouck place to the Millard Davis place. This hill is being cut down and flattened out to eliminate the grade and the material is being hauled to the Kerhonkson hill where it is being used to fill in and eliminate the curves and reduce the grade by changing the route to the east of the present road. The contract lies in the town of Rochester and extends to the Wawarsing line at Kerhonkson.

The contract under which the reconstruction is being done calls for maintaining of traffic over a reasonably safe highway. From those who have passed over the route within the past few days it is reported that the road through the construction is in a dangerous condition and the detour is in almost equally bad shape.

Plans have been completed for the reconstruction of a portion of the route through the town of Marbletown from the Marbletown cemetery to the Rochester town line. This contract will probably be under way soon. On this route several turns will be eliminated, among them the sharp "S" turn at the Elmer Smith place where the highway will be changed to run directly through the site of the barn which is located to the south of the highway. A commission will be appointed to fix damages to that property.

Until conditions are made better through the construction in the town of Rochester or until a suitable detour is provided, traffic should use every precaution when passing through, and if possible the road should be avoided.

Insurance Men On Witness Stand

Counsel for Mrs. Ruth Snyder Calls Managers of Insurance Company That Insured Snyder.

Queens County Court House, New York, April 29 (AP).—The defense in the Snyder murder trial began today with the opening statement of counsel for Mrs. Ruth Snyder, widow of the victim, and co-defendant with Henry Judd Gray.

The opening was made by Edgar F. Hazelton for Mrs. Snyder after Justice Scudder warned that any noise among the spectators would result in clearing of the court.

Harry Hide, an insurance man, was called as the first witness by Hazelton although it was previously announced that Mrs. Snyder would be the first. Hide was manager of the Jamaica office of the company that insured Snyder. His testimony was perfunctory.

John Kaier, Jr., manager of a branch insurance office at Richmond Hill, and formerly employed at the Jamaica office, was next on the stand.

He remembered Mrs. Snyder calling on him about cancellation of her husband's insurance. The defense failed in an attempt to have him read from the policies that Snyder had the right to change the beneficiary.

Hazelton Very Emotional.

Hazelton's address before calling the first witness was exceedingly emotional. He worked himself into a frenzy of oratory and acted out his story of the murder so realistically that he tore his own starched collar from his neck.

Mrs. Snyder showed great interest in the address, nodding from time to time and seeming to take real pleasure in it. She kept a handkerchief in her hand.

Gray listened attentively but remained slumped in his chair and his expression seldom changed. Once he glared at Hazelton as details of the murder were told.

The court room crowd was breathlessly still with one exception. When the lawyer told of Gray pushing his client from the bed and of her fainting he remarked: "She is the type of woman who faints easily."

Then the spectators burst into a sudden involuntary laugh and attendants shouted for order.

Miller Addresses Jury.

Opening for Gray, Samuel Miller addressed the jury, reading his remarks from typed sheets. He said it would be shown Gray's confession was obtained under duress. Gray, he said, was not of rational mind and was "hopelessly intoxicated" at the time of the crime and was "dominated by a will not his own".

"He struggled against that driving power," said the lawyer, "but without avail. He had no motive for crime, not any intent. He was dominated by a cool, dominating, deadly, abnormal, inhuman woman.

"He was in the abyss, driven by this malicious character. Gray will go on the stand and will tell his own story."

Mrs. Snyder Takes Stand.

Mrs. Ruth Snyder, charged with the murder of her husband, took the stand in her own defense this afternoon.

NIAGARA FALLS WILL MERGE WITH LA SALLE.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., April 29 (AP).—At a special election yesterday Niagara Falls voted 2,721 to 1,585 to merge with the village of La Salle. La Salle taxpayers previously had voted in favor of the annexation. The consolidation of the two municipalities will become effective May 25.

Village officials will go out of office but members of the La Salle police and fire departments will function as Niagara Falls city employes.

The greater city will have a population of approximately 75,000.

CHANGE IN CHURCH AND SUNDAY SCHOOL HOURS

A change in the hour of the morning service of Trinity M. E. Church was arranged at a meeting of the official board on Sunday last. The services have heretofore been held at 10:30, but will, commencing Sunday next, be held at 11 o'clock.

The hour of the Sunday school has been changed from 12 to 10 o'clock. For a long period of years the Sunday school hour has been from 12 to 1 o'clock, and this change has been made in what is believed to be for the best interest of the attendance at both the church and Sunday school services.

Hauser Was Slain by Girl

Authorities Reach Conclusion That Alma Heller Killed Spencer Houser and Then Wounded Herself—Tells Conflicting Stories.

Morristown, N. J., April 29 (AP).—Authorities today reached the conclusion that Alma Heller, 19 year old girl, found wounded in the love nest where Spencer Houser lay dead, had killed the man and then shot herself. Houser's wife and five children live in Rome, N. Y., and Miss Heller's home is in Allentown. The two occupied a house on Speedwell avenue as man and wife for two weeks.

The young woman has told conflicting stories, at times accusing Houser, and again saying that she did the shooting.

Drs. Henry A. Rubien and Thomas R. Christian, who conducted an autopsy yesterday, said that there were no powder grains in Houser's scalp, and that his hair was not singed, which indicated that he had been shot from a distance of a foot or more.

Miss Heller's hair is singed and her scalp has powder grains embedded in it, showing that the muzzle of the revolver was close to her head when it was fired.

The girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Heller, of Allentown, visited her last night but refused to comment on the case.

No charge has been lodged against Miss Heller, but she is under guard at the hospital.

Prosecutor Albert H. Holland of Morris county directed that an investigation be made "to determine if this is not a case of cold blooded murder."

Coroner Harry W. Armstrong received a telegram from Houser's wife, Mildred Houser, of Rome, asking that the body be sent to that city. He replied thatt it would be necessary to claim the body and was notified that members of the family were on their way here.

Brisk Demand for Kingston Realty

Kingston Real Estate Board Hears New Factory Will Be Located Here —Discusses City Zoning Law.

Members of the Kingston Real Estate Board held a meeting Thursday evening at the Chamber of Commerce rooms on Broadway. The meeting was well attended and there was a discussion of interest on the zoning law.

A very elaborate and interesting report was read by Max L. Reben in regard to a meeting of the presidents and secretaries of the local boards at a regional meeting held recently in Albany.

James E. Snead reported that he had practically completed negotiations with a concern which would locate a factory in this city. The concern will employ a number of hands. Details of the transaction will be announced as soon as final arrangements have been completed.

Real estate in Kingston was reported as being in demand and the business brisk and in a most healthy condition. Routine matters pertaining to the association were transacted.

Notified Both Her Parents Are Dead

The police department this morning received a telegram from the New York city police department asking the local department to notify Mrs. George Lewis of No. 555 Broadway of the death of her father, Lucius Russell, at 458 West 166th street, and that his body was in the city morgue. No particulars were given. Mrs. Lewis also received another telegram this morning informing her of the death of her mother.

All Communities Prepare for Part In County Pageant

Indians, Dutchmen, Huguenots and Englishmen to be Supplied in Large Number for Big Pageant in Kingston on June 30—Several Communities Not Organized Yet.

Every day now marks the entrance of new factors into the preparations for the Ulster County Pageant which is to be given June 30 at Kingston under the auspices of the Ulster County Home Bureau, the Ulster County Farm Bureau and the Kingston Chamber of Commerce.

Bruce Bennett, director of the pageant, is busily at work coordinating the efforts of the various communities in the county. Inasmuch as Indian life dominates the field as the pageant begins and remains throughout the entire performance in a gradually diminishing degree, depicting the relentless usurpation practiced by the resourceful colonists, it is necessary to have a goodly array of redskins.

Over 100 Redskins.

On June 30 over 100 Indian characters will assist in the pageant portrayal. Napanoch and Accord have thrown in their lot with Kerhonkson and agreed to furnish Indians. Up in that section of the county among those active in promoting enthusiasm and cooperation in the county pageant are Dr. and Mrs. Seiple, Mr. and Mrs. Smith, Dr. Thayer and Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Eppes. These are but a few of those whose aid is proving invaluable.

Three Hundred Dutchmen.

The sturdy, self-reliant Dutch traders and settlers to the number of 300 and more are to be secured from among the citizens of Stone Ridge, Lomontville, Hurley and High Falls, in which communities Ashton Hart, Ross Osterhoudt, Mrs. Myers and Mrs. William A. Warren are among those marshalling the united cohorts of these centers for action.

The Huguenot Refugees.

It is expected that New Paltz and Gardiner will make their contributions to the colorful pageant picture through the medium of impersonation of the Huguenot refugees.

As the pageant story unfolds, the ultimate character of national stock which is to stand the rigors of primitive and colonial life begins to color the scene until at the close it completely fills the stage.

Kingston Furnishes 500 Englishmen.

No portion of the pageant picture is more important, calls for more intelligent attention to detail, or a more finely balanced sense of dramatic values than those phases of the story which depict the coming of the English settlers and the development of their place of importance in the settlement. To show this bit of the pageant story 500 people in English costume are required. This seems like quite a large order and it would be for any place other than Kingston. But Kingston accepts the challenge and, under the direction of Mrs. Virgil B. Van Wagonen, the whole-hearted participation of the county's metropolis is assured.

The list of villages and units of the Farm Bureau, the Home Bureau, the Grange and other organizations listed to join in the telling of the historic story of Ulster is by no means complete. Saugerties, Highland, Milton and several other centers have not officially announced just what form their efforts are to take. Just at present the one thing sure about them is that they are going to be in it, every one.

FORTUNE HUNTERS DIG FOR BURIED GOLD

Buffalo, April 29 (AP).—Fortune hunters were pell-melling today across the Niagara river to Perry Station, a hamlet just beyond Welland, Ont., owing to a rumor of buried gold on the farm of Harold Stayzer. Prophets and seers are doing a land office business.

Seemingly it is impossible for the words "buried gold" without giving a thrill to the situation for those who have been digging declare that two obstacles confront the venturers, a fierce rattlesnake and an old man with a beard.

The gold is supposed to have been buried by a miser who at one time carried his socks in the neighborhood. Whether or not there is truth in the buried treasure story there is no doubt as to the activity of the seekers.

FATHER AND 5 SONS IN PRISON

Moonshine and Tennessee Mountain Life Blamed for Downfall.

Cincinnati, Ohio.—Five of his sons in felon's cells, the eldest condemned to a living death—life sentence, without hope of pardon, for the cold-blooded murder of a young woman—the sixth, barely fifteen, snatched from him by the law in the hope that change of environment may eradicate the criminal tendencies that apparently are inherent, Frank Anglian, fifty-three, liquor-soaked product of the Tennessee hills, is in the county jail meditating on an ill-spent life.

Like a tale from the Arabian Nights reads the story of the sons, whose criminal machinations have run the gamut from common larceny to automobile theft, burglary, arson, assault, highway robbery and, finally, murder. It was the brutal slaying of Shirley Giardon, referred to as the "flaxen-haired flapper," a young and estranged wife, whose life was snuffed out by a bullet from behind as she indulged in a petting party with Peter Brown, on a lonely road, which bared the details of many roadside robberies and other crimes in which three Anglian brothers confessed participation, as well as the checkered page of a lifetime of more or less serious crimes in which the male members of the family reveled.

Ill-Fitted to Face World.

Psychologists will contend, and not without substantial basis, that the hemmed-in life in the mountain valleys that precluded schooling and a healthy environment sounds the keynote. Certain it is the Anglian family emerged from their cabin in the hills, ill-fated to face the pitfalls of the outer world and were easy prey to the glib-tongued criminals infesting the city.

It was easy for Bill Anglian, unsophisticated mountain lad of seventeen, when the family migrated to Cincinnati 12 years ago, to have his head turned by the easy manner in which, under the tutelage of the criminals with whom he had cast his lot, he "stripped" an automobile—his first job. The accessories and tires did not bring much return financially, but to the mind of the mountain youth, to whom a dollar was almost a fortune, it was big money. And getting it was so easy.

Again and again the gang essayed similar jobs successfully, until the small return began to pall on Anglian. Big, raw-boned mountaineer, with muscles hardened by hardship, he visioned real money in a bigger field, leaving the auto jobs to the pikers.

It was easy to induce his brother John, two years his junior, to join him in leadership of what became known to the underworld as the Anglian gang, the existence of which, strange to say, was unknown to the authorities until a keen-eyed patrolman, following a slender clew, brought about the arrest of one of the gang, which proved the opening wedge in tearing apart the well-constructed alibis and revealed the gruesome tale of theft, assault and murder.

Brothers Make Confessions.

With the elder Anglian, now twenty-nine, a confessed murderer awaiting only a jury to decide whether death or life without hope of pardon should be the penalty exacted; his brothers John and George, the latter only sixteen years old, confessed participants with Bill, and Cecil Bennett and Gordon Lawrence, other members of the gang in jail pending trial, the wheels of justice began to move swiftly.

One by one the remaining Anglians were disposed of. Franklin, twenty, going to Atlanta for automobile stealing; Ted, seventeen, to Mansfield reformatory for a similar crime, the father in jail on a drunkenness and neglect charge, and Ernest, the baby and the lone male Anglian as yet apparently unstained by crime, ordered to the children's home by the court in the hope of saving him. Followed the quick conviction of Bill with a life sentence with pardon barred; life for John Anglian and Bennett, and the reformatory and later the penitentiary for George Anglian and Lawrence, minors.

Through the maze of crime and intrigue surrounding the Anglians there stalks the vision of two sisters, who in reality are the chief sufferers as the result of paternal neglect and illiteracy of the mountains that sent their brothers into the world potential criminals. The Anglian sisters took the road directly opposite to that selected by their brothers and today are married happily.

A day consecrated to devotion and duty to that noblest of all God's creations—the Mother. For the sacrifices she has made, no tribute is adequate to lay upon the altar of her love, care and solicitude of a lifetime. And yet the slightest remembrance, the merest token of your affection will seem like a mountain of compensation to her.

We have a very large assortment of inexpensive presents suitable for Mother.

The Sandman Story
By Martha Martin

BABY'S LIBRARY

BILLIE BROWNIE had gone again to call on Charles Norman. Charles Norman was now about a year old—well, he was a little more than a year old, and strange as it may seem he was collecting books.

"I'm going to have a big library," he told Billie Brownie. "Of course, I won't bother about reading now, and then I'll have to be read to before I'll read to myself. At present I'm too busy with other matters."

"What other matters?" Billie Brownie inquired

"Well, I'm interested in drinks of water and drinks of milk and rides in my carriage and in sweet sleep and sunshine and out-of-doors and my mother's society and my daddy's society and all such important things.

"What Other Matters?" Billie Brownie Inquired.

"My daddy takes care of me all the time he is home from the office. He loves to do that and I love it, too—well, that takes up all that much-time.

"And when my daddy is at his office my mother is constantly with me if I am not asleep on my sunny porch—and that takes up all that much time. Then they sit and look at me and chuckle with delight about me and I chuckle, too, so as to be polite. Really, I enjoy it hugely, too.

"They say I am decidedly boyish in my looks, which is fine, for I am a boy, of course.

"I have a small boy cousin, too. He is younger than I am, however. Yes, he is all of four weeks younger.

"Of course, I cry at times. Then my mother soothes me, but my daddy speaks to me sternly in a very manlike way. When I don't cry my daddy keeps calling me, 'You darling little thing,' over and over again.

"So that by way of variety and change and to have him say something else to me, I cry once in a while. That's one of my reasons, anyway. Another is that it is expected of me to cry just a little bit.

"But I don't cry much. It's a waste of time, and as I told you of all the other things I have to keep me busy, you will realize that I haven't much time in which to cry.

"I was going to tell you about my library. Well, as I told you at one time, I have any number of beautiful garments—just quantities of clothes. If it were not that I am so busy and that a baby would be out of place keeping a store, I really believe I'd set up a store and I'd have everything for customers with babies.

"But at the same time I don't need the money from a store, for I've got a bank account. Dear me, yes, Billie Brownie, I've a bank account!

"And then some one gave me a book. Well, my mother showed it to me and I grinned and made little 'talky sounds,' she said, and she also told me I'd been especially good after receiving it. She said books made people contented and happy and pleased.

"And she said I thanked the one who sent me the book by sending a 'friendly and gummy grin, much fist waving and enthusiasm.' Yes, she said all this. I do love the way my mother expresses herself and talks. It's not just like every one else. It's always interesting.

"But I'll tell you, Billie Brownie, the book itself wasn't anything much. It gave my mother an idea, though, to start a library for me while I was young so I'd have quite a fine one when I grew up, and while growing up.

"So I have a library and quite a number of books now. When I'm a bigger boy I shall just have the best time in the world with my library.

"It is a good idea to start a library when one is only a baby. It gives one a good running start.

"And now I must bid you a polite good-by, Billie Brownie, and do come and call on me again soon. My grandfather is coming to call on me now and I must give him my entire attention—he is very important and learned and I'm a wee bit afraid of his importance."

So Billie Brownie went on in the best of spirits for he had had a chat with his dear little friend, Charles Norman.

WHEN I WAS TWENTY-ONE
BY JOSEPH KAYE

At twenty-one: John Howard Lawson was creating more crooks to make his play fit for Broadway.

"AT TWENTY-ONE I sold my first play. Cohan and Harris were the buyers. When the production date for it came around it became evident that something had to be done to it to make it presentable for Broadway. For a long time we worked over it, putting in more crooks, more detectives, more heroes, more shots until the stage was reached when the opinion became unanimous that to leave the play alone would be the best policy. It has been left alone ever since.—JOHN HOWARD LAWSON."

TODAY: Mr. Lawson is one of the most discussed dramatists in this country. A few seasons ago his first play to reach Broadway, "Roger Bloomer," was produced and at once caused a flurry of agitated criticism, due to its total unconventionality. "Roger Bloomer" ran ten days on Broadway, then a band of intellectuals took it over to Greenwich village where it played ten weeks before it went into seclusion. Later it was published in book form.

Mr. Lawson's second play to be produced was "Processional." This work was given its debut by the Theatre guild and never was there so sharply divided or more violent criticism known in New York than that which greeted "Processional." Half the leading metropolitan critics said Mr. Lawson was a genius; the other half said something was wrong. One even questioned Mr. Lawson's reason. The audiences, too, were equally divided, but the outstanding fact was that those who liked "Processional" idealized it and lifted it to the highest pinnacle of art; while those who didn't like it hated it most decisively.

"Processional" was a play that told a story of the life of miners in West Virginia, but was set in a framework of jazz, thus striving to weld the newer drama of American life with the reckless Gippery and gaiety of the jazz years.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE GNOMES

"The gnomes are almost the best-natural little creatures there are," said Daddy.

Very Sulky and Very Cross.

"They are always very happy and they always have good luck.

"In fact, they have a good luck bird—a special bird that just belongs to them.

"He flies over them and sings very much like a canary which the gnomes enjoy.

"They feed him all the crumbs and worms he wants to eat and they call him the tipster bird.

"What a funny name," said Nick. "How did he ever happen to be called the tipster bird?

"Has he always been called that?"

"No, not always," said Daddy, "but now he is never known as anything else but the tipster bird.

"I'll tell you how it happened.

"One time there was one little gnome who caused all the other gnomes a great deal of trouble.

"He was often very sulky and very cross. In fact, his bad disposition was a great worry to the gnomes.

"One day the gnomes were all frolicking about having a splendid time when one of them suggested they should play tag.

"At last the little gnome with the cross disposition was tagged.

"You're it!" they called.

"But the cross little gnome was so mad that he had been caught that he hit the little gnome who had tagged him and said:

"'I won't be it, and I won't play any more!'

"At that the lucky bird, as the gnomes then called him, was so surprised to see a gnome angry and do such a dreadful thing as to hit a little playmate that he tipped way over on one side.

"'Look at the queer way our lucky bird is tipping!' shouted a gnome.

"And before they knew it he had fallen to the ground, for he had completely lost his balance.

"His right wing was quite hurt, and for a few days he was a very miserable little bird, but with the good care of the gnomes he soon got well and could fly around and sing.

"But after that he was always known as the tipster bird, for when he had seen a little gnome cross and behave badly he had fallen to the ground in astonishment.

"And the cross little gnome was so ashamed of what he had done that he turned out to have the same lovely disposition that all the other gnomes have, and, of course, no gnome could be cross again when he realized that he had caused a little bird to fall to the ground in surprise and horror.

"I Won't Play."

"The name of the tipster bird has always clung to the gnomes' pet bird ever since, and it is a good thing, too, for now if any little gnome should feel angry he stops and thinks:

"'If I'm cross the tipster bird will lose control of his wings and will tip to one side until he falls to the ground.'

"And as the tipster bird is such a pet every gnome sees to it that such a thing will never happen again."

SCRATCHED ITCHING SKIN UNTIL IT BLED

Relieved at once by a simple treatment

Evens City, Pa., April 2:—"Some time ago I had a bad case of eczema and vine poisoning. At times I scratched my skin until the blood ran. Then our family doctor advised me to use Resinol Soap and Ointment. I obtained relief at once and before long new, smooth skin had taken the place of the old sores. If Resinol should cost me twice as much I would never be without it as I do not think there is a soap or ointment on the market their equal, and it seems to me I have tried almost all of them. Resinol Soap is most refreshing and pleasant to use, and Resinol Ointment has a quick healing power. I have recommended these products to many people and expect to continue to do so." (Signed) E. J. The fliers are lined up with him. Only two of the original four planes are finishing. The other two crashed at Buenos Aires, causing the death of two of the aviators.

Bandits Refuse to Take Uninsured Cash

Pampa, Texas.—J. M. Durfee, Pampa merchant, is searching the heavens for his lucky star.

Entering the First National bank with a money sack containing $1,100 while it was being held up by five nattily attired youths, Durfee was ordered to toss the sack on the floor.

"That money insured?" one of the bandits asked the astonished merchant.

"No."

"Take it back," the bandit replied. "I guess we got enough money here."

The quintet escaped with approximately $25,000 in cash after locking seven bank employees and more than a score of customers in the vault.

CHINESE SUICIDE METHODS VARIED

Leads World in Ways of Taking Own Life.

Shanghai.—For variety of method in committing suicide China threatens to lead the world. Statistics compiled by the staff of a local hospital give interesting glimpses into what a Chinese will do when he has drunk the last bitter drops of despair.

When a suitor has been rejected by his fiancee and the engagement broken, he thinks nothing of swallowing the engagement ring, just as the girl will not hesitate to gulp down a pair of gold earrings which her fiance has given her, if she finds that he has proved untrue to her.

It is not uncommon for a Chinaman to nibble a few match heads and then lay himself down to die; 125 women and 49 men met their deaths by this route in 1925, according to the hospital figures. This was a decrease over the previous year, but the figures balanced neatly through the fact that the earring and finger ring swallowers gained in numbers.

Ground glass, copper and mercury claimed 60 men and 52 women during the year, but by far the most approved style of committing suicide is by swallowing opium.

Only ten died from throat-cutting or hanging, and only thirteen from deliberate drowning.

In Shanghai, if not in the rest of China, it is a criminal offense to attempt to end one's life.

The year 1925 showed 973 successful suicides in the Shanghai district, with the women outnumbering the men by almost three to one.

Finds Wife, Son After 13-Year World Search

Memphis, Tenn.—Thirteen years of searching the globe for his wife and baby left Scheftal Shmulevitch Khandros, a Memphis cobbler, resigned to a life of loneliness. But now he is a happy man, for a letter has come from his son.

While in his home country 13 years ago, Khandros heard that money grew on trees in America. He left his wife and baby, Joseph, apparently safe in the home of his parents and came here. Then came the war and the Russian revolution. His father was the victim of a bullet. His mother died of starvation. Mrs. Khandros, with her child, fled to Poland. The cobbler lost contact with her and his search in many foreign lands was without results. One day in 1925 a letter came from his wife, but the shadow again descended when he was unable to find them following their deportation to Russia.

Senators, congressmen and diplomats tried to help. Then the letter from Joseph came. The United States immigration service established a connection between the husband and his family. Money was dispatched to Russia and Khandros impatiently awaits the boat bringing his wife and fourteen-year-old son to this country.

Plans to Sail Around World in 22-Foot Boat

Fernandina, Fla.—Demetrius Sigelakis, twenty-seven-year-old Greek, is attempting to circumnavigate the globe alone in a 22-foot sailboat. He is undaunted by his harrowing experiences in 1924, when in a similar effort, he was on the storm-tossed Atlantic for 18 days with only a glass of drinking water between him and death.

For the last month, he has been preparing for a 4,421-mile jaunt from Miami to Gibraltar, which he estimates will take 100 to 130 days. He reached Fernandina from New York in 22 days.

Miser Starves

Pittsburgh, Pa.—More than $300 was found in the room where Miss Maggie Reeder, sixty, of a wealthy Bellaire (Ohio) family, was found dead of starvation here. The money was discovered hidden under a rug after the room was cleaned, Mrs. Della Monahan, rooming-house proprietress, told police.

MOMBACCUS HEIGHTS.

Mombaccus Heights, April 28.—John S. Van Etten of Lakewood, N. J., returned home Monday after spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Van Etten.

J. Newman and family, who spent the Easter vacation at their summer house here, have returned to their home in the city.

Harold and John Van Etten spent Saturday afternoon and evening with their brother, Robert, and wife, at Bloomingburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Abram Smith, Jr., have been receiving congratulations over the arrival of a son, born April 20.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Van Etten happily entertained a part of their family on Sunday in honor of Mr. Van Etten's sixty-fourth birthday. Those present were Robert of Bloomingburg, John of Lakewood, Mrs. Harry Smith and daughter of Pataukuuk, Harold at home and Ambrose Van Etten, a brother of the host. An appetizing chicken dinner with all the fixings was enjoyed and a decorated birthday cake and other refreshments were served before the departure of the guests. Mr. Van Etten received a number of gifts and cards for the occasion.

Harold Van Etten is helping J. Swanson of Pataukuuk with his spring work for a few days.

School was resumed on Monday after a week's vacation.

Local poultry keepers have their incubators running and expect a number of little chicks in a short time.

The Van Etten family have added greatly to the appearance of their dwelling by giving it a coat of paint.

Boys, Ten, Make Profit on Their Own Newspaper

Three young men, scions of society families of Tuxedo Park, N. Y., have gone into business. With Henry Tilford Mortimer (above) as editor, they are publishing a newspaper, "The Tuxedo News," the first issue of which netted them $36. Below (left to right) Ye Ed, Malcolm McVickar, secretary, and Jay Rutherford, business manager.

By E. M. CLARK,
International Illustrated News Staff Correspondent.

TUXEDO PARK, N. Y.—If you worry about the younger generation ought much give a thought to the youngest generation, and specifically three ten-year-old fellows of this point.

They are Jay Rutherford, son of Mrs. Charles F. Frothingham; Henry Tilford Mortimer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Grafton Mortimer, and Malcolm McVickar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lansing McVickar. The parents all figure in Eastern society.

The boys have all the spending money they want. They have all the opportunities for play that children of their circumstances usually have. But they're members of the youngest generation. And it seems to be a generation, not of flappers, paint, sheiks and flasks, but a generation of the old-time fighting stuff.

The boys decided to get into business, produce a needed and salable article, sell at a profit, and so earn their own spending money. They surveyed the field of possibilities and elected to publish a newspaper.

Their first issue is off the press and $36 is in the bank.

The paper, named The Tuxedo News, is a four-page tabloid. It publishes the general news of Tuxedo Park and a smattering of world news. Added to this is a sprinkling of ten-year-old editorial wisdom contained in scattered paragraphs.

For instance, says Editor Rutherford: "Tramps in Argentina ride horseback. But who wants to be a tramp in Argentina?"

Who indeed? Certainly not three members of the youngest generation, out to take a profit off the world.

UP

By SYDNEY J. BURGOYNE

BEWARE of the folks who keep crying "Down"
With everything under the sun;
Down with power, with wealth and renown,
And the man who's nobly won!

It isn't the spirit that "downs" by might,
Though the wrong be real, my friend,
That is going to win the battle for right,
And make injustice end.

It's the kindly spirit of "Up With Truth!"
And "Up" with the friendly hand
That will bring to men the hope of youth
And spread good cheer through the land.

It's the spirit of "Up" with peace of good-will,
With fellowship kind and true,
That is bound to make this old world fill
With joy and success for you!

It's "Up" with the spirit that understands
And measures a man's true worth;
That is going to bind with golden bands
Brother to brother on earth.

It's "Up" with the banner of "Love for All"—
The mighty ones and the weak—
That will make oppression and evil fall
And bring the blessing you seek.

For everyone has a chance to rise
And no man more than the rest;
"To live and let live" is just and wise.
But to live and help live—is best!

So "Up" is the watchword to which to cling,
For every creed and clan;
And the spirit of "Up With the Good" will bring
The brotherhood of man!

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

AN ITCHING PALM

IF THE palm of your right hand itches you are about to receive money. "And you yourself are much condemned to have an itching palm," says Brutus to Cassius in Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar." The superstition is venerable and flourished by the Nile and the Tiber before it saw the Thames or the Hudson. A Greco-Roman amulet of a hand in the British museum has carved on the palm an altar with three cakes, an offering to the gods invoking prosperity.

When we use the expression "an itching palm" as Brutus used it to Cassius, and as we use it with regard to our friends, it means that the person referred to is avaricious and not particular as to how he comes by his money. But when our own palm itches—why, that's another matter: we content ourselves with saying that money is coming to us and ignore the details.

The whole superstition is one of suggestion and association. It originated before the days of paper money, when all money was "hard." A coin taken in the hand presses upon the palm as the hand closes upon it. The sensation produced becomes identified with possession. Any tingling of the palm subconsciously recalls the sensation, thereby arousing the idea of money in hand with which it is identified. The natural wish for money makes it a prognostic. It is the right palm that prophesies because, generally, we use the right hand in accepting money.

WOODSTOCK.

Woodstock, April 28. — G. L. Perera, a Boston artist, is having his house at the top of Ohio mountain repaired and almost entirely rebuilt. He plans to occupy this house during the coming summer, and rent his other residence, which is located at Byrdcliffe.

Dr. James Shotwell has nearly completed his new residence which is built on a sightly knoll on the extensive property of the doctor, which extends along the lower slope of Mount Overlook. His former residence will be let to a tenant. It is understood that Dr. Shotwell and family will be in Europe during the early summer.

Hon. and Mrs. Steven B. Ayres returned on Monday from their winter at Clearwater, Fla. They motored up in a new Willys-Knight which seems to run well. They have opened their house on Byrdcliffe road, and intend to spend the summer here.

Jesse Weeks is building a ten-room house at Wittenberg for a New York man, who is planning to make it the nucleus of a camp. It stands on a knoll, with a fine view toward the west.

Mount Tobias, Indian Head, and the other high peaks, were covered with snow on Thursday morning. Pretty cold in these higher altitudes.

There is more building in Woodstock and vicinity this spring than has been the case in a long time. The town is growing in population quite fast.

POLICE JUSTICE McKENZIE DEFENDS MAGISTRATES

Port Ewen, N. Y., April 27, 1927.

To the Editor of The Freeman:

Sir: If you will allow me a small space in your valuable paper I will plead for the poor unfortunate magistrates who in your edition of Tuesday evening was criticized for performing a duty.

This tirade reminds me of one of Lowell's quotations, "Set up a small booth as critic and sell us his petty conceits and his pettier jealousies." This manifesto by the Automobile Club of Ulster County may be justified in some cases, but why not particularize as to the magistrates who are exceeding their authority? I would be very much pleased if they could express or explain the particular existence of roadside courts? The article referred to is merely a reproduction of the opinion of Chief Justice Taft in the Ohio Tunney case, and the justice was of course thoroughly acquainted with the conditions in Ulster county. The sentiment therein contained bears the impress of a knock-out a la Tunney.

If the Automobile Club will answer these questions they will satisfy the minds of innumerable magistrates throughout our constitutionally governed nation:

Are these magistrates compelled to expel the State Troopers from their court room when they appear with some person who has violated a statute law when he is occupying a position in which he is placed by the people of his municipality? In certain cities and towns the violator must be apprehended in a court where the violation has occurred.

Does it not appear practical or legal to presume that some magistrate must have jurisdiction? If the offense was committed in the city of Kingston should the offender be tried in Oshosh, Wisconsin?

Should the Constitution be changed to suit the vagaries of a few Ulster county automobilists?

I would respectfully refer the question of jurisdiction of justices of the peace to the Constitution.

Can the conclusion of the Automobile Club render invalid the decision of the new court of appeals by perpetuating some liberal opinion of their own? Is it possible that they are ignorant of the fact that the office of justice of the peace is one of the oldest known to the English Law?

Those occupying that position have both civil and criminal jurisdiction; that the most important functions executed by the incumbents are those of conservators of the peace and administrators of the criminal law. It may be possible that the Automobile Club does not consider it a criminal offense when an automobile is manipulated by a person in a maudlin condition, or by a sense of egotism considers his car speedier than others and relegates to himself the paramount right to the highway, and in his excessive desire to exhibit that speed places other careful and sensible drivers at his mercy.

The State Highway Department has wisely adopted a rule of action in these matters and has appointed Troopers to protect judicious drivers; these officers are thoroughly advised and do not appeal to any interested organization as to what they shall do.

I am opposed to any action contemptible in its nature and when a business is unlawfully conducted I would be the last person to approve of it, but the accusation or reflection that there is crookedness, leaving the public to judge that all magistrates have formed unlawful combinations, calls for a reply. If the ideas of the Automobile Club predominate, then I may say "good bye to the safety of the careful operator."

Police Justice.

The same has been left with me for collection at my office in the City Hall, in said City, and for thirty days from the date of this notice the said assessment may be paid without additional fees or charges, and that for the twenty succeeding days ten per centum additional will be required.

News and Views About Women

Evanston, Ill.—The greatest change two score years has wrought in college girls is that those of today "overdo things," thinks Mary Kirk dining room matron at Willard Hall, Northwestern University dormitory, for 16 years.

"In the days when buggy riding was a thrill," she says, "some of the co-eds tried smoking cigars, for cigarettes were unknown. On the other hand, they held nightly prayer meetings in a chapel which has since become a dance hall and reception room."

Paris, Ky.—Youth's failure to follow the straight and narrow path is attributable to mothers' precepts, in the opinion of Mrs. Fannie Belle Sutherland, police judge of this city.

"If the modern mothers teachings are right," she avers, "there will be no trouble with the modern boy or girl." Mrs. Sutherland tries all classes of cases called in police court and has the reputation of having done much to clean up her little city.

Dublin, Ire.—An American, member of a socially prominent family, is an Irish countess and since the establishment of the Irish Free State has lived there much of te time.

She is the former Miss Beatrice Mills, now the Countess of Granard. The Countess is the daughter of Ogden Mills of New York and a niece of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid. The Earl of Granard commanded the Fifth Battery of the Royal Irish Regiment during the war. Both are popular in court and diplomatic circles.

Berlin—One of the three women delegates to the world economic conference at Geneva is the German feminist leader, Dr. Marie-Elizabeth Lueders, democratic member of the Reichstag, who declines to tackle political and economic questions from a sex angle.

Dr. Lueders was a delegate to the National Assembly at Weimar in 1919-20 which adopted the German republican constitution. She has been a Reichstag member since 1920. In 1925 she was a delegate to the interparliamentary union congress at Washington.

Dr. Lueders is unmarried, but has a three year old adopted son.

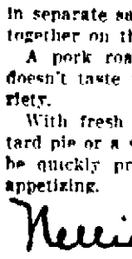
A MEAL ON THE FARM



The average farm wife when entertaining a city friend will invariably serve city food if she can manage it and if not, be so full of apology for serving that which is so common to her.

What more delicious food could be prepared than baked potatoes served with sweet country pork, fried crisp and brown and served with a delicious gravy made from the fat, thickened with flour and thinned with milk? To the friend from the city such food is uncommon and very pleasing.

Then there is roasted spareribs, not the kind we buy in the markets of the city where every bit of meat possible is shaved off, but those with plenty of tender tasty meat left on them, roasted with stuffing seasoned with the good things which have been raised in the herb and vegetable garden by the housewife herself.

A boiled dinner served from the farm table is as unlike the usual boiled dinner in the city as fresh apples are from the dried. In the first place, the corned beef has been grown, fattened, killed and cured on the place and tastes very different from that prepared in the town market, often from leftover meat or tough portions unsalable. The vegetables are full of good-flavored juices, fresh and tender because of care and proper storing.

A good-sized cabbage, a turnip or two, a few carrots and onions, and a few potatoes with a nice fat piece of corned beef, all cooked together until the vegetables are tender, makes a dish fit to set before the dearest friend. It is best to put the corned beef on in simmering water an hour or more before the vegetables are added. Onions and beets are cooked in separate saucepans, then served all together on the platter.

A pork roast of home-grown pork doesn't taste much like the town variety.

With fresh eggs, an omelet, a custard pie or a sponge cake a meal may be quickly prepared which is highly appetizing.

Curves Have Disappeared in London Spring Modes

Curves have gone the way of all excessive flesh and no longer does the ostrich feather sweep the new visible ear of England's womenfolk. Last year's hats were hard. This year they had to be pinched into becomingness for all. With the absence of the curve, the pinching was not easy or graceful.

Then Cubism came to the rescue, and in new models displayed by London milliners the pinching is angular, with the result that hats have developed almost as many facets as a fly's eye or a diamond.

Cubist hats are mostly made in felts, as having a more angular form than the soft outlines of velvet. An adaptation of this hat in the shape of a tricorne is also proving very popular.

Subdebs of Paris Are Wearing Longer Skirts

To lengthen the skirts of young girls sufficiently that they shall not be confused with their shorter skirted mothers, Paris adds a hem of satin. Modesty forbids the Parisian girl who is not yet out to show more than eighteen inches of her silk stockings in the evening. Her mother, however, may display as much as twenty-four inches. The procedure of growing up which used to consist in lengthening the skirts has been reversed. They shorten them now.

ELEANOR GUNN ON FASHIONS

Snakes Continue to Fascinate, and Are Called Upon to Shed Their Skins—Fashionables Capitulate to Blues

New York.—One of the most sensational coats launched in Paris this year was made entirely of snakeskin. While it was unquestionably smart, few of us have use for anything so ultra, for striking clothes should not be invested in, unless one has a wardrobe sufficiently extensive to permit many changes.

Paris also has turned out several dresses made of a crepe in snakeskin design, and while reptile skins are not new, they are to be considered this spring, not only in their familiar form of bags and shoes, but for other things as well—trimmings not the least important. Striking calfskin trimmings are also regarded as smart just now.

There appears to be at least a flurry of interest in white furs for trimming, and in white fox animal scarfs. One sees women who have just stepped off the gangplank wearing black coats trimmed in white fur. One finds white fox abroad by day, and in very general use by night. The animal scarf is again a spring accessory and is worn with the new short jacketed tailleur, cross and red fox being among the fashionable pelts.

The long anticipated vogue for blue has at last arrived. Paris wore navy last spring, and we, as usual, are following in her footsteps. Women have also adopted other blues, and seem partial to them for every occasion: pastel and periwinkle shades for evening, also powder and hydrangea shades, and for sports wear, ciel blue, forget-me-not, and most of the clear, bright blues, even deepening to royal and corn-flower. These intense tones are usually worn with white, introduced perhaps in the hat, shoes, bag, scarf and boutonniere.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press.)

Rochester, N. Y.—Miss Gertrude Gutshee has come from East London, South Africa, to marry Benjamin E. Pape, upon his graduation from the University of Rochester in June. He is also a South African and will enter the ministry.

Philadelphia—The Kaiser used to advocate kierche, kinder, kueche for women. Mrs. A. A. Crooks, clubwoman, has an alliteration for the modern woman—co-operation, co-ordination, continuation to displace catering, cooking, cleaning.

New York—Mrs. W. R. Hearst represented the "Palm Beach Girl" at her costume ball on the Ritz roof which was transformed into a reproduction of the bath and tennis club.

London—Big Bill Thompson is welcome to study England's preparations for war against Chicago. An invitation for a visit was extended in a banquet speech by Lord Lee of Fareham.

New York—Al Smith shall be no villain. A plan for him to play in a melodrama for the benefit of his old parish church as been abandoned. The rush for 800 tickets was too great. There were some offers of $100 a ticket. And there were misgivings about possible pictures of a potential presidential candidate. And Mayor Walker, who also was to take part, had a date to attend the Kentucky derby.

Philadelphia—Senator Willis of Ohio left no doubt when in a speech before the Methodist Men's Council he predicted that some "eminent governors" would not be elected president. Digressing from his prepared speech he explained: "I meant nothing personal when I referred to Governor Alcohol Smith."

London—Perhaps some day it will be Prime Minister Ishbel MacDonald with Megan Lloyd George as leader of the opposition. Ishbel has been making speeches in the United States, Megan has just made her debut as an orator, urging that housewives and mothers turn to liberalism in order to have attention given their needs.

Frog Unable to Live Without Air and Food

An old natural history problem has once more cropped up, and unless a word or two of advice are given the same old, queer beliefs will persist, and frogs and toads will still be looked upon with suspicion as uncanny creatures, says Charles H. Lea in Our Dumb Animals.

The problem is: Can a frog or a toad live embedded in a rock? Two men working on the rocks near Barmouth have found a live frog inside the solid rock, and it is believed that it must have been there for years.

Toads and frogs are often found imprisoned inside lumps of coal and rock, so it is not surprising that people marvel at the apparent endurance possessed by these reptiles. Yet the phenomenon has a prosaic explanation. When the creatures were little they must have crept through some crevice into a hole, and there existing on insects, they have grown larger. So long as they can get a little air and a few insects, they can live as long as ordinary frogs, so that there is nothing marvelous.

Dean Buckland is authority for the statement that frogs die in less than a year if they are deprived of air and food, and that they cannot live more than two years without food, even if given plenty of air, so that the old belief that they can live for centuries entombed in a solid rock is a fallacy. There must always be an airhole and a means for insects to crawl in, for the frog or toad to live many months.

A snow blanket may be a mighty nice thing, but an army blanket probably would win a popularity contest.

Chen's Army Reported Routed

Shanghai, April 29 (AP).—General Chiang Kai-Shek, the moderate Cantonese commander, is reported in Chinese advices from Nanking, to have routed an entire army of 5,000 men under General Chen Chien. He is said to have disarmed all of Chen's troops and killed thirty of them, and also to have captured large bodies of troops at Wuhu, up the Yangtse from Nanking, and other towns.

These advices told of the cutting of the railway between Nanking and Kiuginng, it being explained that Chiang did this to prevent the escape of Chen's troops. Chiang's supporters here interpret the action as an important defeat for the radical section of the Cantonese and as the first step on Chiang's campaign to mote out punishment for the Nanking affair.

Chen was in command of the Cantonese forces at Nanking during the outrages which prompted the shelling of the city by American and British warships anchored in the Yangtse. Before the arrival of Chiang at Nanking, Chen fled in the direction of Hankow with his troops, apparently feeling he would be safer in Hankow than in Nanking.

Testimony to Value of Home Environment

Tests recently concluded to determine the moral and religious effects of various agencies on children have shown that home environment goes further in shaping character than any other single influence. Within the home circle, the influence of the mother is the strongest element.

This is true because it is a fact of child psychology that one's course in life is pretty well mapped out and charted during the first seven years. Study a child at seven and you will have a miniature picture of the future man or woman. Most of these first seven years, of course, represent that period of childhood when almost all influences are negligible excepting those of the home.

A famous welfare worker on the New York bowery has found that almost without exception the human derelicts who have been rescued and regenerated through his efforts came originally from homes in which there was a wholesome moral atmosphere. No matter how low they may have sunk, the seed of goodness implanted within them in their childhood homes never died.—Thrift Magazine.

Icicles Centuries Old

Festooned with glistening icicles that are believed to have formed 150,000 years ago, when all northern Europe and Russia were enveloped in ice, a cave 28 miles long has been found in the Ural mountains. It abounds with grottoes of extraordinary beauty; the roof is a mass of snow crystals that reflect the colors of the rainbow, and there are wide corridors, at the bottom of which a subterranean river probably flowed many years ago, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. About a mile from the entrance to the cavern is a small lake, near which were found several objects dating from the time of the Persian king Cyrus, and military fortifications probably built during the Fourteenth century were unearthed near by.

Wind-Made Snowballs

The wind made snowballs and George E. Sanderson of West Townshend, Vt., says he never saw anything like it in his sixty-four years. Meadows owned by Mr. Sanderson and John Chapin adjoin, making a comparatively level area nine acres in extent and the entire acreage was covered with snowballs. The snow was wet, so it did not drift, but the wind rolled it up into balls from three to ten inches in diameter.—Boston Globe.

Children need the whole grain for sound, normal growth

Child health specialists are emphasizing the importance of the whole grains more and more. They say that for children especially the highly-refined cereals are lacking in much that is needed.

That is one reason Quick Mother's Oats is such a valuable food for little children.

For the tender bran covering of the oat is left on, supplying just the roughage needed. With milk, it provides vitamins and minerals, too—now known to be essential for sound, normal growth.

50 years of experience have taught the careful millers of Quick Mother's Oats how to select the cream of the oats crop—how to prepare it without removing any of the valuable parts—how to make it finer, smoother, and always the same.

Two kinds—the kind you have always known or Quick (cooks in 2½ to 5 minutes). Both with coupons interchangeable with Aunt Jemima coupons, good for jewelry, clothing, and many other handsome and convenient articles.

SOCIETY AGOG OVER VANDERBILT DIVORCE

Paris, April 29 (AP). Fashionable places where the American and foreign colonies gather were agog today with the news that divorce proceedings, oft rumored and denied, had been started by Mr. and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt. Not since the Boni De Castellane case twenty years ago have such important American personages applied to the Paris courts to unbind the marriage ties. Even the French press, contrary to usual custom, went so far as to devote a brief paragraph to the news.

Mrs. Vanderbilt filed her petition for divorce first, charging that her husband refused her access to his home in Paris; then Mr. Vanderbilt instituted a counter suit for divorce, basing his action on the allegation of his wife's coldness.

The two suits were filed, it is understood to avoid long, complicated accountings, which greatly protract the proceedings. Under French law the party against whom judgment is given forfeits advantages obtained from the other party either under the marriage contract or [illegible] quent settlements. A cross petition which is usually granted it is pointed out, obviates this difficulty.

Mrs. Vanderbilt was Miss Virginia Fair, daughter of the late James Graham Fair at one time senator from Nevada and a noted figure in mining circles in Nevada and California. She was married to Mr. Vanderbilt 28 years ago, but they have not been living together for many years.

European music halls have taken up the charleston. It has always been the misfortune of America to be [illegible] abroad on its lowest artistic [illegible].

The race must be getting hardier because no pioneer woman would have thought of facing pneumonia weather in a short skirt and chiffon stockings.

You have learned everything essential about the youth if you know whether he calls himself a college student or a college man.

Just the same that scientist who says handshaking and kissing are in the same class will have a hard time convincing the public.

If the Russians would pawn their $1,000,000,000 jewel collection to raise enough to pay their American debt, they would make money in the long run.

Maine sardine canners have voted a million dollars for advertising in the next three years, but not one cent for more commodious quarters for the sardines.

As long as they use it constantly, the great powers might shoot a little sporting blood and include the Yangtse in their rivers and harbors appropriations.

Serious Riot at Newspaper Office

Rio Janeiro Brazil April 29 (AP)—A serious riot developed here last night over a report alleged to have been circulated by the newspaper Apatris that incompetence on the part of the pilots was responsible for the mishap to a Brazilian plane. The plane fell into the sea yesterday while attempting a transatlantic flight from Cape Verde Island to Brazil. One person was killed and several were wounded when a mob gathered before the newspaper office. The building was damaged by stones hurled by angry citizens.

The plane hopped off at Porto Prava Cape Verde Islands at 10:30 o'clock yesterday morning and 19 hours later reached the South American coast. The commander, Jons De Barros and his comrades, Lieutenant Negrao, Captain Newton Braga and Mechanician Vasco Cinquini were rescued by the fishing steamship Angelo Lost and the Brazilian National Telegraphic announced today that the disabled plane was being towed to the island of Fernando De Noronha, off the Brazilian coast.

Instead of being referred to as "Darkest Russia," the country is now mentioned as "Reddest Russia."

Still we can see one decided advantage to being king of Italy. No one has tried to shoot him yet.

"JOAN OF ARC" TONIGHT AT HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM

Mark Twain's "Joan of Arc," which will be given at the Kingston High School tonight under the patronage of the Athletic Association, with Clara Clemens, Mark Twain's daughter, in the title role, met with a high degree of success when given in New York city, where Miss Clemens won high praise as a dramatic artist. She has assembled an exceptional company to support her in the play, which has been staged by Paul Stephenson, one of the best known producers in the field of the American Art Theatre. The play will begin at 8:15 o'clock and tickets will be on sale at the door.

SUNDAY SERVICES AT ST. MARK'S CHURCH

The services on Sunday in St Mark's A. M. E. Church will be of an interesting character. At 11 a. m. there will be the closing general class of the year. Every member is requested to be present, it is likewise the last communion for the conference year, and the pastor is very anxious to meet all of the members and Christian friends at the services of this day.

At 3 p. m. the regional mass meeting of the New York Federation of Women's Clubs will be held and will be presided over by J. W. Harden of Poughkeepsie with Mrs. R. C. Proctor, mistress of ceremonies. The principal address will be delivered by Mrs. Payne of Poughkeepsie. Quite an elaborate program will be rendered interspersed with good music. The public is cordially invited to attend. Mrs. Annie Van Dyke is president of the Kingston club.

At 8 p. m. sermon by the pastor, with special thought for the boys of Kingston, looking to the instituting of a company of Boy Scouts regardless of denomination in the near future. The parents of all the boys of the city are earnestly requested to attend this service.

Wednesday night, promptly at 8 o'clock, the fair committee will meet at the church to complete arrangements for the chicken dinner May 12.

High School Club Gives $100.

After an address had been made to the students of the Onconta High School by Robert Hall, treasurer of the Onconta Red Cross chapter, concerning the stricken inhabitants of the vast flood area along the Mississippi river, the Dramatic Club of the school unanimously, donated $100 for the relief of the sufferers. Campaigns were conducted in all of the schools in Onconta.

Recent Events in Realm of Sport

Kansas City.—An unsung bout with the dreaded Asiatic disease, trachoma, has been staged by many of the best known wrestlers in the country in the past half dozen years, it has been disclosed here by Ed (Strangler) Lewis, claimant of the world's championship.

Lewis announced he had won a doctor's decision after a five year struggle with the ailment. Two years ago doctors all but despaired of restoring his sight, he said.

"The wrestling game in America has been haunted by the spectre of trachoma for years," Lewis said. "A Hindu wrestler made an American tour and left in his wake a dozen cases, some of which have since led to serious consequences."

Chipping Norton, Eng.—This is the only district in England where a baseball league is maintained from year to year. Cricket is the national game in other parts.

Baseball is also played in Wales, but it is not the same game that is played in America, and the Chipping Norton district is the only place in England where American rules are observed.

A team from the Chipping Norton district was the first to beat an all American one, and last season the town club won the championship of England.

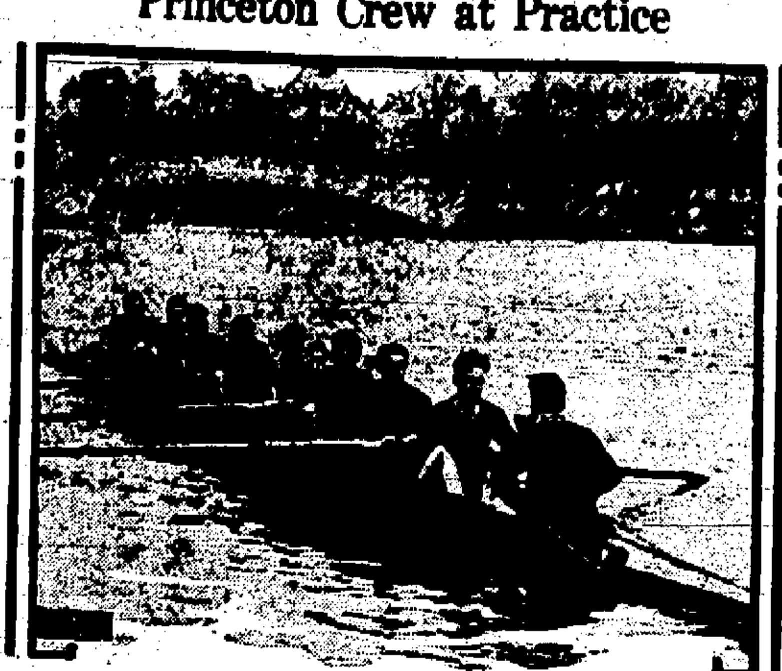
St. Bonaventure, N. Y.—For the first time in its 74 years of existence, St. Bonaventure's College has a national track champion. He is Charles W. Major of New York city, indoor high-jump champion, who recently dethroned Harold Osborne. Major's best mark is six feet five and five-eighths inches.

The negro jumper's achievement in the Millrose Athletic Club games this year bettered that of the former champion by more than two inches.

Awatonna, Minn.—Athletic prowess has shown itself in a new spot in the family which produced Herb Joesting, all-American fullback of the University of Minnesota.

Regina Joesting, Herb's younger sister, has won the high-school swimming honors of Owatonna with three firsts and a pair of seconds in a city scholastic meet.

Princeton Crew at Practice



The Princeton varsity eight started their first spring practice on the water course in preparation for the coming intercollegiate regattas. The first practice meet was intensive and candidates measured up to expectations. The lineup of the varsity crew is as follows: Beardsley, bow; Stratford, 2; Rutherford, 3; Magee, 4; Ballard, 5; Helmrath, 6; Clark, 7; Allison, stroke; Pirie, coxswain.

Strange Coincidence Is Suggested in Baseball

What a strange coincidence it would be if Pittsburgh won the pennant in the National league and Detroit in the American!

These two clubs now are managed by Owen Bush and George Moriarity, who in the days when Detroit was winning pennants starred at shortstop and third base, respectively.

To make the situation all the more unusual, these two players were the pepperpots of the Tigers, also roommates as well. Now they are managing mighty strong ball clubs in the rival major leagues.

In those days Hughey Jennings would supply the pepper from the Tigers bench and coaching lines. On the field Bush and Moriarty would pull it.

Game of Golf Taken Too Seriously by Players

Isn't it true that we do take golf too seriously? Wouldn't our game improve faster if we didn't knit our brows every time we tackle its intricacies? Couldn't we get just a little more fun out of it?

Golf to most of those who play it is certainly a most serious business. If a round, even with old friends, is played sociably, it is at the expense of the game, says the Sportsman. Silence and obsequial gloom brood over the putting greens. A match for the president's cup is a funeral procession. Golf a sociable game? About as sociable as a hand at Canfield in the morgue on a rainy afternoon in November.

It would not do, of course, to drop the bars entirely. It would be impossible, for example, to play a game in the vicinity of an artillery proving grounds. A certain amount of concentration is part and parcel of a game which, of its very nature, is more mental than physical. For old can play as well as young, and on even terms. Whether or not we need absolute silence, however, remains a debatable point.

Fritz Maisel at End of Active Baseball Career

The active playing days of Fritz Maisel, former speedboy of the old New York Yankees, appear to be about at an end. Maisel led the American league in stolen bases some 12 years ago.

Playing second base, with Roger Peckinpaugh at shortstop, he also led the loop in double plays one year, although he was a third-baseman during most of his career with the Yanks.

Maisel is captain of the Baltimore Orioles and also a stockholder. Working at third base, with Joe Boley at shortstop, he was rated one of the best hot corner guardians in the minors, but evidently has decided to quit in time.

THEN and NOW

These are not Babe Ruth before and after lunch. The pictures are of the Bambino, sure enough, but they show him as he looked at the start of his big league career—when he thought he was a pitcher—and as he looks today—when he knows he is a slugging fielder.

No Manager for Jack Dempsey

New York, April 29 (AP).—Jack Dempsey will hit the comeback trail this summer without the guidance of a manager.

The former champion, accepting Tex Rickard's terms for a test bout with Paulino Uzcudun here early in July, has informed the New York promoter he will boss his own campaign to regain the title, and Rickard thinks his judgment is good.

"Jack doesn't need a manager, he is a good business man himself and I will help look after his financial affairs," says Tex.

Gene Normile, business representative of the erstwhile titleholder last year, confirmed Dempsey's announcement that he is now without managerial strength. Normile also affirmed Trainer Gus Wilson's report of Dempsey's good condition, asserting that "Jack never looked better in all his career."

Although Rickard refused to divulge the purse he will pay Dempsey, reports came from Madison Square Garden that the dethroned king will receive approximately $250,000. In accepting Paulino as his first foe, Dempsey also agreed to meet the winner of the Maloney-Sharkey battle provided he gets safely past the woodchopper.

The survivor of the latter match is slated to be Gene Tunney's opponent in the championship battle next September.

SENATORS TO PLAY WILBUR FEDS SUNDAY.

A fast game of baseball is expected to be played on the old Wilbur Commons Sunday afternoon when the Wilbur Feds and the Senators clash. The Feds will be on their home grounds and expect this to assist very much in their run for victory. The Senators will have a strong lineup of diamond performers and the boss of the aggregation is confident that a win will be the outcome of his teams debut.

Collins will be on the mound for the Feds while Heffman will stand behind the plate to receive his puzzling slants. The rest of the players will be the same boys who performed against the South Rondout team on last Sunday.

Knight will enveador to darken the chances for a win on the part of the Feds as far as the twirling is concerned. If this boy is in the same form that he has shown in past seasons the Senators' fielders will not have to overwork. Merritt will make up the other end of the battery for the Senators.

Francis O'Neill, 429 Abeel street, whose telephone call is 1866-M, is anxious to hear from some of the fast stepping nines in this vicinity, especially the Malden Cardinals, Ellenville, Shenandoahs, Kingston Point All-Stars, Clermont A. C., A. T. & T., Chichester and the Whippets.

If you can't trust yourself then don't expect credit from others.

Tagging Major League Bases

(By The Associated Press.)

New York Giant bats again played the marching music for the National League parade today after a wild scramble for choice places in the line.

With a flurry of extra base blows that subdued the Braves in a ding-dong melee by 4-3, the Gotham contenders profited yesterday by an overwhelming defeat of the Pirates to clinch undisputed possession of first place. At the same time the Quakers and Cardinals moved up into second place, while there was a general shake up in the American League which affected no less than five teams.

The Giants plucked only seven safe blows from the pitching of Bob Smith but four of them soared for extra bases. One, a home run by Eddie Roush, and another for two bases by Eddie Farrell, figured in rallies which turned the tide in favor of the Gotham entry.

The only skirmish in the league unmarked by a parade of pitchers from slab to showers produced a 3-1 victory for the Cards, under brilliant pitching by Flint Rhem. Carl Mays, opposing Rhem on the mound, gave only five hits, but four of them went for extra bases.

Second, third, fourth, sixth and seventh places in the American all held new tenants as the result of a general spring house cleaning. An eleven inning defeat of the Browns by the White Sox enabled the Athletics to swing into second position on the crest of another huge hitting wave. The Senators caught under the billow, were dropped from third to fourth, while Detroit pushed the Indians off the sixth place shelf.

Six Washington hurlers ran to cover under the Macklan storm of hits, the Athletics winning easily by 15-7. It was the only pronounced slugging party of the day in the circuit, however, for pitching duels dominated the Cleveland-Detroit and St. Louis-Chicago battles, with the Sox clinching their game in the eleventh by 2-1 and the Tigers staging a five run, seventh inning spurt to beat off the Indians at 6-5.

CLERMONT A. C. TO PLAY ROSENDALE

Sunday afternoon the Clermont A. C. will travel to Rosendale, where they will try hard to take the team representing that town into camp. "Dutch" Hafer will likely do the mound work for the Clermonts with J. Houghtaling on the receiving end.

The Rosendale team is a bit stronger this year than last and will endeavor to defeat the Clermonts in their opening home game. Last year, going under the name of the Victory Eagles, the Clermonts took a fall out of the Rosendale team.

All members of the Clermont team are requested to meet in their clubroom no later than 12:30 o'clock. The game will be called at 2 o'clock.

Athletic Events At Pennsylvania

Philadelphia, April 29 (AP).—One of the greatest armies of athletes ever gathered for a track and field meet was here today for tests of speed, strength and skill in the 33rd annual relay carnival of the University of Pennsylvania.

The entire list comprised approximately 3,200 individuals representing most of the leading colleges and schools of this country, and Cambridge University, England, and the Delta Collegiate Institute. Among the competitors were many stars capable of record breaking performances, both on the track and in the field.

Forty-four of the 102 events were down for decision today, starting at 10 a. m. With the 100 meter dash in the decathlon, or all around championship. The remainder will be decided tomorrow.

Featuring the opening day's program, in addition to the decathlon, which embraces ten events, were the 400 metres hurdle race in which Lord Burghley, Cambridge star, was due to make a bid to regain the title he won in 1925, but which he defaulted last year. Among the titled Englishman's listed opponents were Johnny Gibson, Fordham, victor last year; C. C. Weighman-Smith, another member of the Cambridge team, and a score of other fleet-footed timber toppers.

Lord Burghley and Weightman-Smith also were entered in the 120 yard high hurdle race, another attraction on today's card, as were the other three members of the Cambridge team, T. C. Livingston-Learmonth, H. P. Bowler and J. O. Richardson.

BROWN TIRE COMPANY NINE ORGANIZED

Another team that expects to make baseball history this season is the Brown Tire Company nine which was organized on Wednesday. Bill Longendyke is the manager of the team and intends to pick up a lineup which will give some of the local talent clubs a run for the championship of the vicinity.

Longendyke has so far signed up the following players: Joe Miles, Charley Kelly, Frank Sammons, Arnold Smith, Ray DuBois, Wesley Hyatt, Norman Miles, Joe Bloom, Kenneth Kennedy, Everett Emery and Harold Smith. Several other players will be signed in the near future and the nine will immediately start practice for their jaunt on the road toward the big goal.

Bluege to Play Short

Ossie Bluege, third baseman for the Washington ball club, has been shifted permanently to shortstop by Manager Bucky Harris, who declared in making the announcement he wouldn't be able to win a pennant with Bluege "in any other position."

Inability of other players to give satisfactory results on double plays between first and second prompted the change, the manager said.

Buddy Myer is slated to take up the work at the hot corner.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

LEGION COMPLETES PARIS TRIP PLANS

Arrangements for the Paris convention of the American Legion to be held September 19 to 23 have practically all been completed both on this side and abroad, James F. Barton, national adjutant of the Legion, reported after inspecting arrangements recently in the French capital. Representatives of veterans' organizations and high city and government officials met Adjutant Barton, Bowman Elder, national chairman of the France convention committee, and John J. Wicker, national travel director, upon their arrival on French soil. All expressed eagerness for the day when their former American comrades in arms would visit the scenes of the World war. Reservations are increasing and no date has been set when any bookings will close.

Under the arrangements the sessions of the ninth annual convention of the Legion in Paris will be held in the Palace Trocadero, famous government exhibition building. The Hotel Continental will be the headquarters of the Legion auxiliary and the Hotel Palais d'Orsay that of "40 and 8," the play and honor society of the national organization. Thirty thousand rooms ranging in rate from $7 per week up are under contract to house the veterans in the French capital. On September 19 there will be a great Legion parade in which veterans of the allies will join. In the reviewing stand will be Marshal Ferdinand Foch, supreme commander of the allied forces; Gen. John J. Pershing, war-time commander of the A. E. F., and Howard P. Savage, national commander of the American Legion.

James F. Barton.

Plans and development of the France convention from the United States side have been going on for approximately two years. The Legion has obtained one-half fare for the round trip from the veterans' home town to the ports of embarkation on this side. A fleet of twenty-eight of the largest ocean liners, of which the S. S. Leviathan is flagship, will carry the Legionnaires to France. Round-trip steamship fares on the official Legion ships range from $145.80 to $370 on most of the ships, while on the S. S. Leviathan the rates are from $151.50 up.

Legionnaires will have full run of the ship and there will be a complete program of games and entertainment at sea. Most of the Legionnaires will travel with their local delegations. The landing ports abroad will be Boulogne, Havre, Cherbourg, and Antwerp, Belgium.

Those eligible to take the trip at the Legion rates on the official steamers fall into the following categories: Members of the American Legion in good standing for 1927 and with a paid-up 1926 membership card; members of the American Legion Auxiliary paid for the same period; fathers and grandfathers of Legionnaires; husbands of women members of the Legion or auxiliary when accompanied by member wives; minor lineal descendants of Legionnaires; brides of Legionnaires in 1927 prior to the convention; and newspaper representatives with credentials from the publisher showing that they are on active duty covering the conventions.

Although department quotas of space in the movement were recalled by national headquarters on March 15 there still remained space to be had with local delegations, it was announced after a check. The Legion has prepared an attractive two-color "On to Paris" steamship folder showing the ship assigned to the state delegations, the official plans, rates and other information essential to veterans desiring to make a reservation for the Paris trip. Veterans may obtain one of the folders by writing either to the France convention officer of the particular state whose address may be obtained from the local Legion post or to the France convention committee, national headquarters, the American Legion, Indianapolis, Ind.

CATTLE DRAWN BY INSTINCT OF AGES

Stampede Brought About by Rainstorm.

A country of sudden darkness, where tragedy and comedy run side by side, where drought follows fortune, and the unexpected lurks behind the corner is the gulf region of Australia. And nowhere are there more contrasts, more dramatic or abrupt, than in the living merchandise of the gulf—cattle.

In the valleys of the Leichardt, near the Cumberlands, the cattle from the dry ranges, farther out, are known as "storm cattle." For these are animals that are born in a hot wilderness, where the only water comes from the sky, and where, when cattle want a drink, they chase a rainstorm.

For most of the year—in dry seasons, throughout the year—these cattle have to depend on showers for their water. Their senses are sharpened, their instinct specialized, their noses trained to detect that one great necessity of life, drinking water. Away from their dusty ovens, in strange pastures, they still retain those habits which have been burnt into them by the brands of thirst.

A herd of these cattle was taken out of the ranges once to a station where water was plentiful, from mountain streams and springs. For a time, in the winter months, they seemed to have settled down completely. They drank this astonishing profusion of water with satisfaction.

Then, with the approach of summer, the "dry" storms peculiar to Queensland and the Gulf country began to flash in the sky. These flying showers are reflected in the sky miles from their actual location. The Queenslander of this region is used to the storm, which seems to be just round the corner, but in reality is many hours of traveling away.

The cattle were not so used to the phenomenon, however. And at the descent of the first "dry storm," away went the herd, true to its instincts. In a few moments, every beast in the herd was racing madly away to the spot where the rain seemed to be falling. The fact that water was close at hand did not deter them. This was the deeprooted instinct of thousands of ancestors of the gulf country, whose very lives had depended on their speed in reaching the area licked momentarily by a mocking shower.

Systematic Plant Study

Pasture plants in continual war to see which will prove fittest and survive, according to Dr. Herbert C. Hanson, associate professor of botany at Colorado Agricultural college, in Popular Mechanics Magazine. Timothy, redtop, alsike clover and white clover cannot withstand the competition of orchard grass and red clover and will be crowded out if their enemies are not held in check, he has found. At the same time, however, Kentucky blue grass, working under the shelter of the other plants and extending its subterranean foothold under their roots, eventually will drive out the victors. Smooth brome grass and meadow fescue often hold their own when cattle are barred.

Be Wise and Mothercrafty

The smartest of new words is "mothercraft." You don't learn how to take care of a baby from your mother, but you go to a mothercraft school and study how to become a mothersmith. In fact, mothersmithing is becoming popular. "There will soon be a law," suggests the Woman's Home Companion, "prohibiting any woman from having a baby, or mothersmithing, who hasn't a . the degree of M. M., that is, mistress of mothercraft. Bootlegging a baby will be severely punished."

Detective Stories

There is a weakness in everybody's armor, and it is detective stories, says a Detroit librarian. "No matter how staid or how learned, or how much a client may prefer philosophy or history, once in a while every reader likes a detective story, a rattling good one," says this same librarian. "Maybe it is once in ten years, or once a year, but they all fall on occasion. I think it is because a detective story takes them completely out of themselves, and that is good for everybody, once in a while."

Weight of Paper Money

The office of the treasurer of the United States says that it takes 20% dollar bills to weigh the same as one standard silver dollar. Since one standard silver dollar weighs 412.50 grains, one bill would weigh 20.12 plus grains. All paper money weighs the same.

Originally Hiding Place

Crypt literally means a "place hidden," and was first applied to the vaults and catacombs in which the early Christians held their services in Rome and some other ancient cities. Crypt now means a chamber constructed beneath many ancient cathedrals and used as a place of burial.

KILLS FOR LOVE IN CAFE, THEN HE TIPS WAITER

Suitor, in Tears at Trial, Tells of Being Jilted by Dancer He Shot.

Paris.—Isidorio Ramos, aged forty-three, a Spaniard, who took romance seriously, began a five-year sentence in a French penitentiary recently, because he shot pretty Marcelle Hudry, aged nineteen, to death in a Paris restaurant.

"Why did you kill Mademoiselle Hudry?" demanded the police, as they arrested the Spaniard.

"Because I loved her so," replied Ramos.

The trial was another one of the many "Parisian crimes passionelles."

"Why did you kill the young woman?" a judge demanded of Ramos in court.

"Because I loved her," persisted the murderer.

Weeps at Trial.

With many tears interspersed with legal eloquence the trial proceeded. Ramos met chic et charmante little "Lilette," as Mlle. Hudry was known, one night in a Madrid cafe. She attracted him, and he bought her jewels, furs and pretty clothes. She was fidele for a time, and then deserted him. They met again in Paris. There was reconciliation over the lunch table in a semi-fashionable Paris restaurant. Lilette confessed that she had other friends and supporters and could never feel the same about the middle-aged Lothario of Spain.

Then Tips Waiter.

Ramos called for the bill, and before the garcon brought it he excused himself for a moment and went to the washroom. When he returned he deliberately drew a pistol from his pocket and shot the unsuspecting Lilette dead. She slumped from her chair to the floor. Without looking at her, Ramos again asked for the bill, paid it and presented the proper 10 per cent tip to the waiter.

The guillotine's knife will not fall upon the neck of Senor Ramos. Considering the case, his sentence of five years was a heavy one. In America or England Ramos would have doubtless been convicted of first degree murder. But in France to kill for love is different.

Refuses $60,000 Left Him in Trust Fund

Pittsburgh, Pa.—"I bear no malice nor animosity toward my father's memory. He might have made mistakes, but they mean nothing to me, for he was kind and loving and I deeply respected him. But I just don't want the money that way."

William Flinn Feeney, Squirrel Hill, son of Michael J. Feeney, former business man and associated with Booth & Flinn, Ltd., for many years, said that and explained why he had, in Orphans' court, filed a renunciation to the $60,000 trust fund set up in his favor in the will of his father, who died 18 months ago.

Feeney is about thirty now. When he was younger, he said, he displeased his father, who, evidently fearing he might dissipate an inheritance, created the trust fund, which should provide him with an income from [illegible] the remainder of his life. The son settled down to the seriousness of life, and the father, he said, intended to change the will. It never was done.

Boy Kills Chum

Stuttgart, Germany.—In a fight over the ownership of an earthworm which both desired to use as fishing bait, Hans Stilzl, fourteen years old, stabbed his friend, Gustav Rupp, of the same age, at a creek near here. Rupp died.

Over $5,000 Raised in Y. W. C. A. Drive

Campaign to Secure $8,500 Continues to Make Progress Which Encourages Workers—Speakers Tell Why Drive Must Succeed.

There was a big meeting of Y. W. workers at the get-together supper on Thursday evening, and it was difficult to say whether the workers inspired the speakers with more pep or the speakers inspired the workers with more pep. Anyway, it was a mighty peppy meeting.

The Rev. J. Wilbur Tetley pronounced the invocation.

The first speaker of the evening was Corporation Counsel H. H. Flemming, who assured the workers that with continued effort, energy and enthusiasm, and the fact that they were all working for the good of others, there could be no doubt of their reaching their goal of $8,500. He stressed the fact of the Young Women's Christian Association being founded on religion, the great uplifting force in building character which in the past had gained for the organization the support of the community which it had used wisely and well, and which would assure the Y. W. of the support of the community in the future.

A Record of Success.

Max L. Reben, former president of the Chamber of Commerce, had a new thought to offer the workers in his brief and pithy address. He said that when during any worth while campaign he was approached for a contribution, he considered it a real compliment and always thanked the solicitors for counting on him as a citizen who was ready to do his bit. He was grateful for the opportunity to participate in the furthering of good causes, and he suggested that the workers approach their additional prospects with that thought in mind. As nothing succeeds like success, Mr. Reben assured the workers that they could go to their prospects with a past record of success that was a guarantee of a successful organization in the future.

New Pastor Predicts Success.

The Rev. Mr. Withey, pastor of the Trinity M. E. Church, who has just come to Kingston, was introduced to the roomful of Kingstonians and in turn expressed his pleasure at being present and meeting such a group of enthusiastic people whom he knew would be successful in their fine enterprise.

Mr. Porter, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. was also present and wished all possible success to the sister Y organization. Since they were going out to get in order to give, and that in rich measure to the young women of the community, he knew they could not help succeeding.

Sam M. Watts was there, too, and injected a good bit of fun into the meeting which was justly happy and hilarious over the following report.

Pilgrim Strayed From Path of Righteousness

John Billington was one of the Pilgrim Fathers. He led a tumultuous life, made numerous enemies and distinguished himself by being the first person hanged in Plymouth colony. The day of his execution was one of triumph for the righteous. There had been a great deal of controversy as to whether Billington's life should be taken, whether in fact the colony had legal right to hang him; but in the end the question was decided by expediency.

He was one of the signers of the compact on board the Mayflower, that document which has so often been the theme of orators. His family were public figures from the beginning of the colony, and this man's death at the hands of his fellow citizens was a turning point in the life of the settlement. Yet the inquiring reader will search far in school histories for any inkling that such an individual ever existed.

Textbooks for the new generation generally paint the Pilgrims as God-fearing, heroic people, who came to these shores so that they might worship the Deity in their own way. They are credited with courage, perseverance, democratic ideals, devotion to duty. But if one digs into the early records of Plymouth for the story of John Billington he will find that not all the Mayflower voyagers were lovely folk. There was conflict among them, and castelines, and doctrinal division. Discord had arisen on the ship long before land was sighted.

Billington was hanged in Plymouth on September 30, 1630, ten years after the arrival of the 102 colonists off Provincetown. He had waylaid a young man named John Newcomin, with whom he had quarreled, and shot him. Newcomin had interfered with his hunting deer. The defendant was arraigned before both grand and petit juries and was found guilty of wilful murder, "by plaine and notorious evidence."—John N. Beffel in McNaught's Monthly.

GOOD ROADS

ROADS INTEGRAL PART OF NATION

Present-day conditions have made the highways of the country an integral part of our daily life, according to Dr. J. G. McKay, of the bureau of public roads. This has come about in the last 15 years, or since the motor vehicle became a practical mode of transportation. Today roads are of major importance in our scheme of life.

"The general field of motor vehicle transportation," says Doctor McKay, "can be divided into three major classes of service. First is the local distribution of commodities and local transportation of people. This constitutes the bulk of the motor truck movement and is primarily the distribution of goods within cities and their suburban areas. In Connecticut, 67.1 per cent; in Ohio, 64.2 per cent, and in Pennsylvania, 77.3 per cent of the net tonnage transported by motor truck is hauled less than 30 miles. In passenger transportation the principal function is also mass transportation within local areas.

"The second class supplements existing rail and water service by extension of freight and passenger service into areas not served by rail or water lines, substitutes motor vehicle service for rail operation of unprofitable branch lines and provides a combined service in conjunction with railroads or boat lines or both. The primary function of the motor vehicle in this joint movement is the movement of people or goods in the short haul.

"The third class is the so-called long-haul transportation. This type of service is not important as to quantity of movement nor would it appear to be economically sound. For motor trucks the volume of tonnage in the long haul zone is comparatively small and decreasing in importance. In Connecticut 15.2 per cent, in Pennsylvania 6.9 per cent, and in Ohio 15.9 per cent of the net tonnage is hauled over 60 miles."

Doctor McKay is in agreement with the general opinion of those who have studied motor truck conditions that its principal function as part of a correlated system of rail, water and highway transportation seems to be its development in the short haul zone, with great potential possibilities of volume service in terminal areas of dense population.

"Since the haulage of goods and people can be generally safeguarded by regulatory legislation, it would seem," he adds, "that present rail or water lines should qualify as the responsible financial and experienced agencies of mass transportation of people and goods in this rapidly developing field of motor vehicle transportation."

Good Roads Facts

To cover all tourable highways of the United States and Canada, it would take three years and 16 days in an automobile going 12 hours a day at the average speed of 30 miles an hour.

The Lincoln highway between New York and San Francisco, 3,142 miles long, has been improved on all but 41 miles of its entire distance. The entire length is uniformly marked with characteristic signs.

A total of 10,628 miles of federal-aid highway were completed in the United States during the fiscal year ending July 1, it is announced by the bureau of public roads of the Department of Agriculture.

The Lincoln highway between New York and San Francisco, 3,142 miles long, has been improved on all but 41 miles of its entire distance. The entire length is uniformly marked with characteristic signs.

The Lincoln highway, one of the first major highways to be constructed in Pennsylvania, continues to stand at the head, among the highways of that state, and the chances are that it always will stand at the head.

An extensive campaign is being conducted in India to build roads for the accommodation of motor bus transportation. Great areas in India lie between railroad lines and have no efficient transportation system.

No new highway bill can suffice unless it contains two fundamental provisions, viz., one that will construct the roads rapidly, efficiently and economically, and another that will keep the fingers of the infernal grafters and thieves out of the highway money.

Ancient Road Signs

Road signs date back to the early history of the world. Many monuments has been unearthed by archeological expeditions in Crete, Asia Minor and the Greek Peloponnesus which show that signs were in use even in the time of the legendary heroes of the Hellenic world. In the Roman forum is still preserved the "golden milestone," a pillar on which were carved the names of roads together with distances from Rome. Markers are being placed on many of our roads.

Harpy in Mythology

Harpy is a fabulous, filthy winged creature mentioned in the Greek poems of Homer and in the Latin poems of Virgil. The harpy is described as a ravenous bird with sharp claws, and with the head of a woman whose face is pale with hunger.

Colonials Will Put Strong Team On the Diamond

Remaining Reserved Season Tickets Expected To Be Sold Before Opening Game on May 8—Another Fast Nine Will Represent Kingston.

Although the promoters pushing the sale of $25 season tickets for the Colonial baseball team are $375 from their goal it was decided late Thursday evening to organize a team and carry out all pending negotiations. With a sum of $2,125 realized, player contracts will be signed, bookings completed and the Colonial team for 1927 will be set into motion. This is made possible through concessions made by the Kingston Fair Grounds Association.

Beside the $25 tickets now on sale a number of $15 tickets are also ready to be disposed of in order to assure a safe financial foundation. The $25 tickets will entitle their holders to seats in the grandstand while the $15 tickets will give admittance to every game at the Fair Grounds but will not entitle one to a grandstand seat.

Open With Police Team.

Lou Brown stated this morning that it was almost a certainty that the Colonials will open on Sunday, May 8, with the Schenectady Police. Teddy Karis, former right fielder with the Colonials and idol of Kingston fans, will be in the lineup of the upstate cops on the opening date. Teddy, himself trained in the uses of the nightstick and nippers, will probably play in the outer garden for the bluecoat warriors.

Some time today Jack Robins got in touch with Bud Culloton who is in New York, and the latter will make final arrangements with the players. Bud will get to work in a day or two and sign all the players that the co-managers have been considering for several weeks. The Colonial lineup will no doubt consist of Culloton, Smith and McDermott as twirlers and Jack Robins on the receiving end of the battery. Vince O'Brien will cover the initial sack, Matty Deegan on second, Johnny Peters or Johnny Haber at shortstop and Bill Shay of Newburgh on third. In the outer garden there will be Tex Kelly, Dell Middlebrook and Tommy Pender. Although the lineup is not definite it is almost a certainty that these men will wear the Colonial war togs for 1927.

Getting Field in Shape.

Jack Robins has been spending his spare time of late getting the diamond at the Fair Grounds in playing condition and manicuring the outfield. Consequently with a day or more to complete the work on hand everything will be in readiness for the initial "play ball." Last season the Colonials started their campaign on May 9 with the Beckwiths of Poughkeepsie. The Colonials won this contest 5 to 4.

Strong Teams Booked.

Lou Brown has been negotiating with several formidable aggregations for the opening games. The D. and H. Generals will not doubt be on hand for May 15, the week following the Colonial's debut. The D. and H. Generals always make many visits to the Colonial City during the season and a series will probably be arranaged with the railroaders later.

St. Louis Game Certain.

Booking Manager Brown has already wired the St. Louis Cardinals to the effect that the Colonials will reorganize and consequently the big leaguers are certain for Sunday, May 22. For Saturday, May 29, negotiations are to be made with the Philadelphia Colored Giants, a team with a mammoth reputation around New York baseball circles.

Buck Ewing Coming.

Buck Ewing, Chappie Johnson's mainstay at the catching job, has this year branched out for himself and Brown is planning for a double-header on Decoration Day with Buck's warriors. Ewing's style of playing has always caught the admiration of Kingston fans and these contests will likely be well attended. Buck Ewing's All-Stars make their headquarters in Schenectady.

Tonight Bud Culloton will arrive from New York and will go in conference with Jack Robins and Lou Brown when the three will map out plans for the season.

All-Stars Open Here on May 14

Stanleys of Great Barrington Will Play Kingston All-Stars at Athletic Field on Saturday, May 14.

The Kingston All-Stars will fire their first gun of the season at the Athletic Field Saturday afternoon, May 14, when they oppose the Stanleys of Great Barrington, Mass. One of their four twirling aces, Eddie Baker, Freddie Stout, Dick Williams or Dewey Van Buren, will probably be manning the guns for this initial engagement. Then Sunday, May 15, the All-Stars will return the match in Great Barrington.

Manager John McCardle and George Cragan have not booked a game for the following Saturday but for Sunday, May 22, they are scheduled to play in Millbrook. Then on Sunday, May 29, the All-Stars will journey to Middletown to clash with the Middletown Grays, who have had several matches with the Colonials in the past seasons.

An exact lineup has not been chosen as yet due to the uncertainty of securing two or three players. The All-Stars have leased the local diamond for every Saturday and will play road games each Sunday.

PORT EWEN

Port Ewen, April 29.—There was a large attendance at the first cafeteria supper of the Official board of the Methodist Episcopal Church held in the church house Thursday evening. The menu was very appetizing and thoroughly enjoyed. These suppers are very popular and are to be held every month during the conference year.

At the meeting of Lucinda Rebekah Lodge, Thursday evening in their rooms in Odd Fellows' Hall at Ulster Park, they celebrated their first anniversary of the organization. There was a large delegation of Vineyard Lodge from Highland and members from Colonial Lodge in Kingston and a good representation of their own members. The birthday of John Holliday, one of the lodge members, fell on the same date as the founding of the lodge so a double celebration was held. He was presented with a box of handkerchiefs and a birthday cake from the members. Mrs. Sheridan King, ... of Mohonk Lake presented the lodge with a beautiful birthday cake in honor of the occasion. At the close of the business session an entertainment was given in charge of Harold ..., consisting of solos, instrumental selections, recitations and readings. Beautiful refreshments were served. The evening was very pleasantly spent.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 29 (P).—Selling pressure was lifted from today's stock market after an early period of heaviness, and prices rallied briskly throughout the list. With the technical position of the market obviously improved by the recent sharp setback, speculators for the advance resumed their operations with confidence, being aided by the short covering.

Marking up of the call money rate from 4 to 5 per cent, which followed the calling of about $25,000,000 in loans, was regarded as incidental to the heavy month end demand for funds. Its immediate effort was to slow up the buying movement. There were several excellent quarterly reports made public during the morning, the Rock Island earning $1.62 a share, as against a deficit in the corresponding period last year, while Chrysler Motors showed $1.46 a share, as against $1.15 a year ago.

About a dozen oils sank to new low levels for the year in the early trading, but heavy short covering in that group brought about a good rally with several issues rising a point or more above their early lows. Philip Morris sank to a new 1927 low while American Water Works and Hudson and Manhattan attained new peaks for the year.

Group buying was effective in the railroad equipment, motor, public utility and railroad shares, with the Western Pacific issues, Chicago Great Western preferred, General Motors, Timken Roller Bearing, Baldwin and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe among the outstanding strong spots.

POULTRY FACTS

COCCIDIOSIS IS CAUSING LOSSES

Coccidiosis is a parasitic disease of chicks over two weeks old and is causing unnecessarily large losses to poultrymen, states J. J. Black, assistant poultry pathologist, New Jersey agricultural experiment station.

The disease is picked up from contaminated soil or from brooder houses that have not been properly cleaned. The parasite that causes it may be carried on the feet of attendants or on feeding vessels.

Coccidiosis may be prevented by raising chicks in confinement, using a concrete slab for a run in front of the house, advises Doctor Black. Only new equipment or that which has been disinfected by a high degree of heat should be used. When a person is entering the poultry house, he should slip on a pair of rubbers kept for that purpose or clean and disinfect his shoes in a box of wood shavings saturated with a pure, coal tar disinfectant.

It has been found that losses from coccidiosis may be checked by cleaning the brooder as soon as disease makes its appearance. A small amount of litter should be used and the brooder cleaned every day for three days and then every third day until losses stop. All visibly affected chicks must be removed and the carcasses of those that die should be burned. It is of great value to keep the floor of the brooder house warm and dry. This prevents the development of the parasite.

California milk mash is advised for feeding. It consists of dry skim milk or dry buttermilk, 40 pounds; wheat bran, 10 pounds; yellow corn meal, 30 pounds; ground barley or rolled oats, 20 pounds.

This mash should be furnished as soon as disease appears. Grain is fed twice daily, but is restricted to one-third the amount of mash consumed. This system of mash and grain feeding is continued as long as there is any indication of the disease. The grain is supplied in the usual manner. The change back to the regular ration is made gradually. All mashes should contain 2 per cent of cod-liver oil.

Where liquid milk is used, all mash and water are withheld, and grain is fed sparingly—a little in the morning and more at night. It is often difficult to get the chicks to consume enough liquid milk, especially if it is not of good quality.

Habits of Guineas

For some reason the mother guinea does not seem to realize that her little ones are frail creatures, unable to withstand extremes of heat and cold, moisture and long tramps afield. Their habits seem to be about as senseless as their noise, which probably accounts in a large measure for their culture having been neglected. They make their nests in remote places, under hedges, bushes, brush heaps or wheat shocks, and if their nests are disturbed they will move to another place.

Poultry Items

Wood shavings make better poultry nests than hay or straw.

The first off the roosts in the morning and the last to roost at night are the best layers.

* * *

This is the season when mites and lice multiply so fast that one of 'em becomes a grandma of hundreds in just a few days.

* * *

Poultry should always be fattened before killing. This means better quality, more weight, and a considerably higher price per pound.

* * *

For fattening broilers a good ration is made up of seven parts of corn meal by weight, three parts wheat middlings, and one part bran. Wet with milk until it will pour like batter, and feed to the birds in shaded pens.

* * *

Mold is one of the commonest troubles in sprouting oats, and moldy feed is dangerous.

Follow directions and handle the incubator correctly if the best hatch of livable chicks is to be secured, say poultry workers.

Hens must eat plenty of mash, if they are to lay their best. Have you made enough hopper room so that every hen can get their fill? There should be a foot of space for every five or six hens.

* * *

Keep the chicks that are raised in a brooder pretty close to the heat during the first three days.

* * *

High-priced seeds that produce high yields are cheaper than low-priced seeds that produce low yields.

* * *

It takes 21 days for a hen egg to hatch, about 28 days for ducks, from 30 to 34 days for a goose egg, and 28 days for turkey eggs. The time may vary somewhat according to conditions.

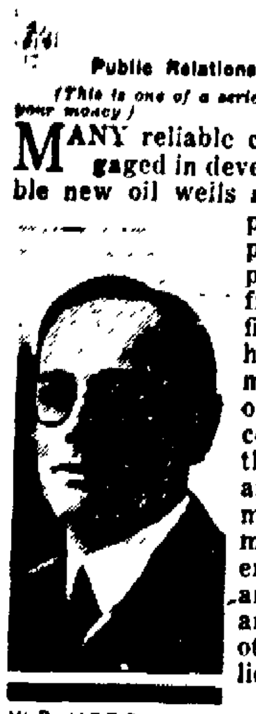
Reward in Well Doing

Life is only justified by service, and it only becomes worth while when we stand our corner, pull our weight and pay our footing in the service of others. But then how well worth while it all becomes!

WAYS TO BLOCK CROOKED PROMOTERS

By W. R. MOREHOUSE
Public Relations Commission, American Bankers Association

(This is one of a series of articles exposing the wiles of sharpers who are after your money.)



W R MOREHOUSE

MANY reliable corporations, firms and individuals are engaged in developing mining properties, drilling for possible new oil wells and promoting new inventions and enterprises. On the other hand many unreliable persons are ostensibly engaged in the same pursuits, but in reality are only promoting frauds. Therefore, every investor should first divide the sheep from the goats before he hazards his savings. Because there are many dishonest manipulators using mining, oil, invention and promotion terms to deceive does not mean that all promoters in these fields are crooked. The truth is, there are many trustworthy men engaged in promoting enterprises that are honest investments. The problem is to know the difference between promoters of the reliable type and the high-pressure variety. The former are engaged in legitimate business. The other group is engaged in fleecing the public.

The number of those who deliberately scheme to defraud is large and they are shrewd and deceitful. For this reason those who cannot afford to lose their savings should not trust entirely to their own judgment in making investments.

In order to divide the sheep from the goats—to distinguish between reliable and unreliable promoters, to tell the good investments from the worthless — the inexperienced investor should consult his bankers or let the National Better Business Bureau, whose headquarters are in New York City, advise him. It costs nothing to get such advice from either source. It is safe to say that if those who have lost their savings through fraudulent schemes had followed this simple course they would still be in possession of their money.

Get the Facts

Invariably, get the facts and take no substitute. There is nothing better and nothing just as good as the facts when it comes to withdrawing your savings from the bank and investing them. The facts about an investment either strengthen its position or show it up to be risky—oftentimes too risky for the person who cannot afford to lose.

others you know nothing about. Sometime you may be approached to make a trade by a plausible person claiming to have better investments to offer than those you have. Recently a woman owning a block of gilt-edge public utility stock was approached by two smooth sharpers and urged to exchange it for stock in a fruit company which, she was told, was not only very valuable then, but would increase rapidly in value and soon make her independently wealthy. Fortunately she told her neighbor about her offer. It happened that the neighbor had recently been defrauded in a similar way. She advised the second woman to report her offer to the local better business bureau. Having handled many similar situations the bureau instructed the woman to make an appointment for the traders to meet her in her home.

They were on hand at the appointed hour. With the cunning of expert swindlers they proceeded to inveigle

Good Advice that Prevented Disaster

New schemes to defraud are being hatched daily. The unscrupulous promoter never sleeps, but is continuously plotting new methods of attack on the savers' hard-won accumulations. The liberties he takes with the law and the schemes he designs for belittling the sound advice of responsible persons makes it even more essential for investors to get the facts.

Remember that anything that is worth investing in is worth knowing about as to its safety, its income, and its marketability. Any investment which is enshrouded by a screen of glowing promises or is so complicated that neither you nor your banker can fathom it and get the hard facts isn't an investment you can afford to put your money into.

Make it an unbreakable rule to get all the facts, whether the investment be large or small, and you will save yourself the heartaches and bitter disappointment of losing your savings.

Millions of dollars which have unfortunately been lost through poor investment might have been saved if the investors had taken time to investigate before investing. There is always need for capital in safe, honest business and so great is the legitimate demand for investors' funds that not one cent need be wasted by them on fraudulent schemes.

Don't Trade Good for Bad

Don't exchange your investments for her stock away from her, assuring her that if she exchanged her public utility stock for that of the fruit company there was no doubt she would become very rich. But just as they were spreading out before her a beautifully embossed stock certificate the bureau's detective stepped out from his place of concealment and told the swindlers he had come prepared to take them for a ride in his car. They protested loudly and even struck at him, but experienced as he was in handling persons who resist arrest he soon had them handcuffed together.

Investigation revealed that the certificate of stock of the fruit company was fictitious. No such company had ever been organized. The evidence also disclosed that some certificates had already been issued and exchanged and there were a large number more ready for future use whenever a trade could be arranged.

Literally thousands of inexperienced investors are being swindled out of their good investments in such trades. It behooves all persons who have good investments not to exchange them without first getting all the facts from their banker or other person fully qualified to advise and protect them.

(A future article will tell of more schemes by which people are defrauded of their savings.)

otarians Hold Annual Meeting

e Rotary Club program this was somewhat like the earth after it was created—without although by no means void. e were too many things to do ake a program possible. Annual rts were read showing an aver- attendance for the year of over per cent and a gain in member- of five. The finances are in a satisfactory condition although nsiderable amount has been ex- ed in support of various objects. two members who had attended meeting during the year, Emil Boessneck and Chester Hall, were ented with fountain pens in ap- ation of their faithfulness irectors for the year were elected as follows: Dr. Myron J. Michael, Ernest R. Hicks, Laurence P. Willson, Emil G. Boessneck, Merton Goldrick, Edmund W. Nathaway and Arthur L. Merrill. The directors will later elect the officers of the club for the coming year, who will be duly inaugurated without form at the next meeting.

Cars Traveled Together

Four occupants of a small coupe narrowly escaped injury on the Torrington road, about two miles from Winsted, Conn., when the driver of the car lost control, in attempting to pass another machine, ran up an embankment at a sufficient rate of speed to cause the coupe to leave the ground, overturn and land upside down on the machine in the road. The second car, which was a sedan, continued for about twenty feet with the coupe on its top.

Gives Wife $100,000 for Each Baby Born

Los Angeles, Calif.—A marriage compact under which J. F. White, Tampico (Mex.) oil man, agreed to give his wife, Elsie L. White, $100,000 for every baby born to their union, came to light in Federal court. The disclosure was in connection with White's court battle to defeat the federal government's steps to collect $231,120 income taxes.

KILLS DAUGHTER HOLDING INFANT

Follows Girl to Cellar and Slays Her.

Red Bank, N. J.—Mrs Christine Stoble, who has learned to sleep lightly in raising a family of ten, was awakened by a slight noise early in the morning and found her eldest daughter, Rose, sixteen, tip-toeing down the stairs.

"I am dizzy with the headache," said Rose. "Go back to bed."

An hour later Rose had not returned and Mrs. Stoble followed her. She found the girl lying in a pile of rags in the basement with a baby in her arms. As Rose cried out to her mother Mrs Stoble reached under the rags, drew out her husband's revolver and pulled the trigger three timee. One bullet struck Rose in the cheek and the other two in the back as she tottered to the steps. The girl crawled into the kitchen and was dead when her father and brothers found her.

Later Mrs Stoble faced Prosecutor John J. Quinn, Chief of Police Harry Clayton and their stenographer and talked for an hour in a lifeless unhurried monotone. A week ago, she said, a neighbor with a wagging tongue had told her Rose was meeting clandestinely a man known as "Mike."

She had confronted her daughter with the gossip. Rose denied it. Again and again the mother heard the story from others. If her husband, Michael Stoble, who is a gardener, heard it she feared his anger. That, she declared, explained the presence of the revolver in the basement. Followed then the scene with Rose in the morning, when the mother's worst suspicions were confirmed. The baby, she said, was dead when first she saw it. "I remembered the gun was there," she said. "I knew I could never go out in the street or hold up my head, and the children would be ruined. I pulled the trigger as fast as I could."

Afterward, she recalled, there was much confusion in the house and her eldest boy, Joseph, eighteen, buried the revolver in the back yard and called an undertaker.

The confession ended. The stenographer's pencil stopped. Mrs. Stoble, the wall of reserve melting suddenly, whirled upon the prosecutor and screamed: "My God! Now I think maybe it would be better if I had killed myself!"

3 Are Stricken With Rare "Malta" Fever

Los Angeles, Calif.—With three cases of Malta fever, described by authorities as one of the rarest diseases known to this country, reported in or near Los Angeles county, health authorities under County Health Officer Pomeroy, together with state health officials opened an extensive investigation into the situation.

Of the three cases already reported, two are in local hospitals under observation and treatment while the third is a patient in the Long Beach hospital, according to Doctor Pomeroy.

The disease, which is believed to have originated on the Island of Malta, is so rare that thorough study and investigation is imperative, he declared, as in the three cases reported, the patients became infected from milk.

Wife Wanted Mink Coat; He Grew One to Order

Hilbert, Wis.—Mrs Peter Fleming wanted a mink coat. She told her husband so. He was $450 in debt, but he went to Milwaukee to look at mink coats. He found that the cheapest was $1,850. In Chicago he found $2,220 was needed.

It made him angry. His wife insisted on a mink coat. He borrowed $90 and bought a pair of minks.

Fleming now has the largest mink farm in Wisconsin and believes he has the largest in the United States. His wife has a mink coat. He owns the farm and the buildings clear of all incumbrances, has $5,000 in the bank and many thousand dollars' worth of the fur bearing animals.

Literary Shrine Made Prey of "Renovators"

The carpenters are busy there these days. They are tearing up floors and putting them down again. They are fitting new window sashes and fastening bright and shining locks to doors. They are renovating a little six-room house at Seventh and Brandywine streets, Philadelphia, and they do not know a great American poet once lived there.

"Oh, it was years ago, you say," remarked a workman, accepting that as explanation of why Edgar Allan Poe lived in such a modest dwelling, a place with no reminders of past glory. He had not lived in this country long and Dante was the only poet he knew.

"A poet, was he?" asked the foreman, pausing in the business of scraping a door.

"They say there is a fortune buried in the cellar," he added in a dubious voice. "I never heard about the poet, but the lady who used to live here dreamed three nights in succession about that money in the cellar."

And he thumped across the dark wooden floor of the rooms where Poe and his young wife lived happily for a brief time in their tragic years together, and peered down into the cellar. Then he lit a candle and went down the narrow steps to a dark, musty room crowded with broken pieces of glass and papers and an old trunk. The fortune might be under the trunk—he couldn't tell just then.

But there is no secret about the Poe house. It has stood as a literary shrine for many years. No matter how hidden from view, how broken-down in appearance, persons from all over the world have come to visit it.

Artists have painted its little barren backyard, where Virginia Poe and her mother used to sit under the branches of a large pear tree. Writers have stepped quietly across its threshold and thoughtfully handled the old iron latch on the front door. Meetings have been held in its tiny rooms and speeches given on the doorstep.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Locked-Up Old History

The muniment room at Westminster abbey contains a collection of historical documents that probably has no counterpart the world over. Closely guarded in locked, iron-bound chests, the papers kept there number over 100,000, and some of them date back to the Eighth century.

These documents are now being prepared and edited for publication, and Doctor Scott, the librarian of the British museum, is making a careful precis of 57,000 of the more important.

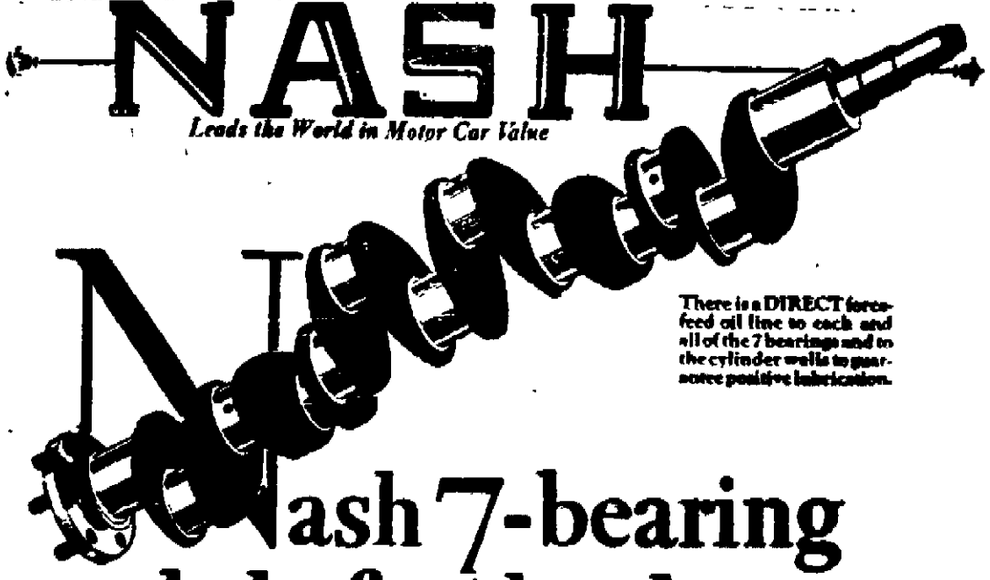
NASH

Leads the World in Motor Car Value



There is a DIRECT force-feed oil line to each and all of the 7 bearings and to the cylinder walls to guarantee positive lubrication.

Nash 7-bearing crankshaft takes longer to build—costs more

It takes longer to build a 7-bearing motor than it does to build one with only 3 or 4 main bearings.

There are at least 3 more bearings to hone and polish. (Nash has considerably more bearing surface than other six-cylinder motors in the Nash price field with 4-bearing crankshafts.)

There are at least 3 more bearings to align. And there are at least 3 more bearings to check for proper clearances.

But the Nash 7-bearing crankshaft eliminates the "whip" which loosens bearings and piles up expensive shopwork on motors with fewer crankshaft bearings.

Obviously, it costs more in time and money to build the Nash 7-bearing crankshaft.

Why then does Nash build it, when other manufacturers still use engines with fewer bearings?

The answer is that Nash owners have come to expect Nash to be definitely better than any other car they could buy at the Nash price.

And 7 bearings alone produce superlative power-smoothness and power-quietness.

Before you select your new motor car, drive a Nash and see how smooth it is at high speeds, how powerful and effortless its pick-up at every speed.

[The Nash Price Range on 26 Different Models Extends from $965 to $2050 f. o. b. factory]

Oldtime Gambling Game

Klemyunn is an old gambling game which was often played at fairs. The layout usually consisted of a piece of oilcloth with figures on it from 1 to 6. The players placed their money on the numbers. The operator shook three big dice in a dice cup. Then turned the cup down on the board. When the cup was lifted the numbers displayed on the dice were the winning numbers.

Got His Photographs, But "Never Repeated"

L. A. Huffman, as official photographer at Fort Keogh, Mont., in the period when Gen. Nelson A. Miles was commander of that army post, came in personal contact with the heads of both Indian and American fighting forces in one day.

Huffman had become friendly with Rain-in-the-Face, of Custer battle fame, who was a prisoner of war at the fort, and after considerable difficulty Huffman had arranged to photograph this leader of the Indian tribes. The Indian chieftain remained at Huffman's studio for three hours, having been taken from the army's Indian prison camp surreptitiously. In his prolonged absence, the other Indians feared their leader had been hanged by American soldiers and an investigation was started by General Miles. Rain-in-the-Face returned to the camp and Huffman was summoned before General Miles.

"Young man," said Miles, addressing Huffman, "if you ever take another prisoner of war out of camp without permission from the adjutant or myself, you will find yourself in very serious trouble."

"I never repeated," Huffman said afterward, "but I had gained some fine pictures of Rain-in-the-Face."—Neil M. Clark in the American Magazine.

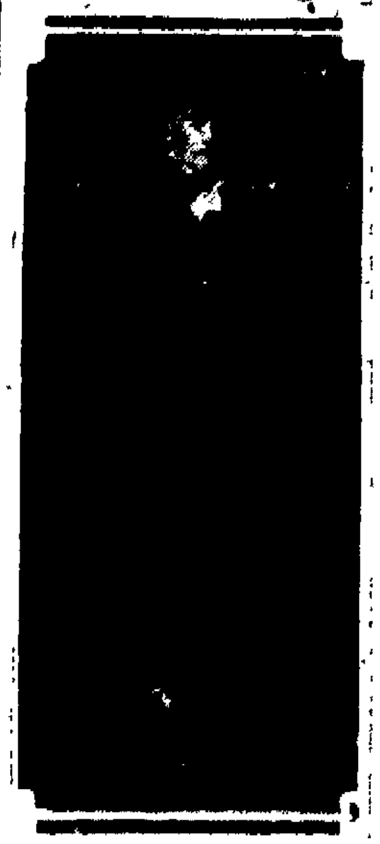
Keeping Tough



Alfred Wascolonis, of Plymouth, Pa., star fullback of the University of Pennsylvania football team, is keeping fit by working in the coal mines in his home town during his Spring vacation.

Merely Got Patient Ready for Physician

"Have you given him anything or done anything to relieve him?" asked the young doctor, who had fared into the backwoods to see a patient in the dead of a stormy night.

"Well, no, doc—that is to say, nothin' to speak of," said the wife of the patient. "I had him soak his feet in almost b'ilin' water with a lot of mustard in it, an' I clapped a red-hot plaster on his back, an' another one on his chist, an' I've put a couple of blisters I had in the house under his arms, an' a bag o' cracked ice to the back of his neck, an' had him drink a pint o' ginger tea with a dash o' rum in it jes as hot as he could swaller it, an' I followed that with some yard bitters one o' the neighbors sent over, an' I had him take five or six pills out of a box I got one day of a man that come along with med'cine to sell, an' he's had three or four spoons o' Quackem's pain-killer an' one o' these sidelitz powders, but I didn't feel like as if I ort to give much o' anything, or try to do much for him until you come an' see what you think ailed him. Then I reckoned we could go at him and really give him somethin' an' do somethin' fer him.—Forbes Magazine.

Archibald's Premise

Little Archibald is of an inquiring nature. When he comes across anything he does not understand he is seldom slow in asking for information. So when he was told to entertain a visitor for ten minutes, he came straight to the point that had interested him from the moment the man had removed his hat.

"Mr. Jones," he asked, "why is it you've got no hair on your head?"

"Well," was the reply, "I work so hard with my head that my hair doesn't get a chance to grow; my brains are too busy."

"Oh," said Archibald, light dawning upon him, "so that's why mother doesn't grow a mustache."

Worries Good and Bad

The strange thing about worry is that it does the most mischief when concerned with the most trivial matters. Thus to worry about bad luck, domestic infelicity, disagreeable neighbors or the welfare of the boy at college or in the army, produces nothing but fatigue of body and soul, whereas a bit of anxiety concerning the colony of germs that have taken an apartment in the nose or throat, the annoying constipation that develops from bad dietary habits, the vacant soil in the back yard that needs cultivation or the narrow limits of the family exchequer might be the first step toward longer life and a bigger income.—Exchange.

Amethyst Superstitions

The amethyst was worn in ancient Egypt. Amethyst scarabs were highly esteemed by Egyptian soldiers, who wore them on the battlefield as a charm against death and the shafts of war. This practice survived into the Middle ages, when the amethyst was regarded as the stone sacred to St. Valentine, who is said always to have carried one.

A powerful talisman for the protection of riders and their horses was a winged image of a horse engraved upon an amethyst. A modern version of this belief is that the ownership of an amethyst will give vigilance to business men, and sportsmen and soldiers calmness in the hour of danger.

A day consecrated to devotion and duty to that noblest of all God's creations—the Mother. For the sacrifices she has made, no tribute is adequate to lay upon the altar of her love, care and solicitude of a lifetime. BABY'S LIBRARY

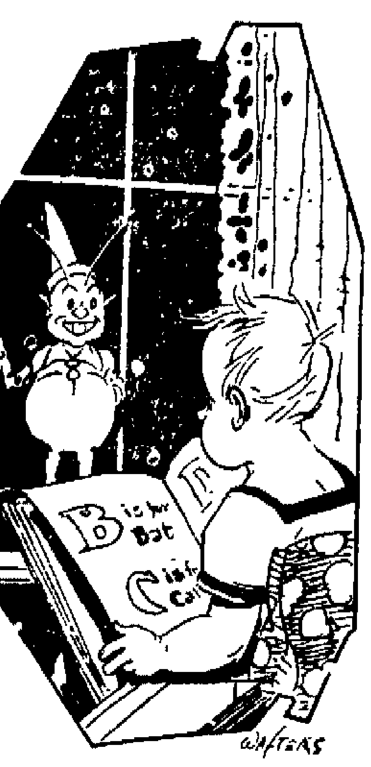
BILLIE BROWNIE had gone again to call on Charles Norman. Charles Norman was now about a year old—well, he was a little more than a year old, and strange as it may seem he was collecting books.

"I'm going to have a big library," he told Billie Brownie. "Of course, I won't bother about reading now, and then I'll have to be read to before I'll read to myself. At present I'm too busy with other matters."

"What other matters?" Billie Brownie inquired.

"Well, I'm interested in drinks of water and drinks of milk and rides in my carriage and in sweet sleep and sunshine and out-of-doors and my mother's society and my daddy's society and all such important things.



"What Other Matters?" Billie Brownie Inquired.

"My daddy takes care of me all the time he is home from the office. He loves to do that and I love it, too—well, that takes up all that much time.

"And when my daddy is at his office my mother is constantly with me if I am not asleep on my sunny porch—and that takes up all that much time. Then they sit and look at me and chuckle with delight about me and I chuckle, too, so as to be polite. Really, I enjoy it hugely, too.

"They say I am decidedly boyish in my looks, which is fine, for I am a boy, of course.

"I have a small boy cousin, too. He is younger than I am, however. Yes, he is all of four weeks younger.

"Of course, I cry at times. Then my mother soothes me, but my daddy speaks to me sternly in a very manlike way. When I don't cry my daddy keeps calling me, 'You darling little thing,' over and over again.

"So that by way of variety and change and to have him say something else to me, I cry once in a while. That's one of my reasons, anyway. Another is that it is expected of me to cry just a little bit.

"But I don't cry much. It's a waste of time, and as I told you of all the other things I have to keep me busy, you will realize that I haven't much time in which to cry.

"I was going to tell you about my library. Well, as I told you at one time, I have any number of beautiful garments—just quantities of clothes. If it were not that I am so busy and that a baby would be out of place keeping a store, I really believe I'd set up a store and I'd have everything for customers with babies.

"But at the same time I don't need the money from a store, for I've got a bank account. Dear me, yes, Billie Brownie, I've a bank account!

"And then some one gave me a book. Well, my mother showed it to me and I grinned and made little 'talky sounds,' she said, and she also told me I'd been especially good after receiving it. She said books made people contented and happy and pleased.

"And she said I thanked the one who sent me the book by sending a 'friendly and gummy grin, much fist waving and enthusiasm.' Yes, she said all this. I do love the way my mother expresses herself and talks. It's not just like every one else. It's always interesting.

"But I'll tell you, Billie Brownie, the book itself wasn't anything much. It gave my mother an idea, though, to start a library for me while I was young so I'd have quite a fine one when I grew up, and while growing up.

"So I have a library and quite a number of books now. When I'm a bigger boy I shall just have the best time in the world with my library.

"It is a good idea to start a library when one is only a baby. It gives one a good running start!

"And now I must bid you a polite good-by, Billie Brownie, and do come and call on me again soon. My grandfather is coming to call on me now and I must give him my entire attention—he is very important and learned and I'm a wee bit afraid of his importance."

So Billie Brownie went on in the best of spirits for he had had a chat with his dear little friend, Charles Norman.

WHEN I WAS TWENTY-ONE

BY JOSEPH KAYE

At twenty-one: John Howard Lawson was creating more crooks to make his play fit for Broadway.

"AT TWENTY-ONE I sold my first play. Cohan and Harris were the buyers. When the production date for it came around it became evident that something had to be done to it to make it presentable for Broadway. For a long time we worked over it, putting in more crooks, more detectives, more heroes, more shots until the stage was reached when the opinion became unanimous that to leave the play alone would be the best policy. It has been left alone ever since.—JOHN HOWARD LAWSON."

TODAY: Mr. Lawson is one of the most discussed dramatists in this country. A few seasons ago his first play to reach Broadway, "Roger Bloomer," was produced and at once caused a flurry of agitated criticism, due to its total unconventionality. "Roger Bloomer" ran ten days on Broadway, then a band of intellectuals took it over to Greenwich village where it played ten weeks before it went into seclusion. Later it was published in book form.

Mr. Lawson's second play to be produced was "Processional." This work was given its debut by the Theatre guild and never was there so sharply divided or more violent criticism known in New York than that which greeted "Processional." Half the leading metropolitan critics said Mr. Lawson was a genius; the other half said something was wrong. One even questioned Mr. Lawson's reason. The audiences, too, were equally divided, but the outstanding fact was that those who liked "Processional" idealized it and lifted it to the highest pinnacle of art; while those who didn't like it hated it most decisively.

"Processional" was a play that told a story of the life of miners in West Virginia, but was set in a framework of jazz, thus striving to weld the inner drama of American life with the reckless flippancy and gaiety of the jazz years.

This work was given its debut by the Theatre guild and never was there so sharply divided or more violent criticism known in New York than that which greeted "Processional." Half the leading metropolitan critics said Mr. Lawson was a genius; the other half said something was wrong. One even questioned Mr. Lawson's reason. The audiences, too, were equally divided, but the outstanding fact was that those who liked "Processional" idealized it and lifted it to the highest pinnacle of art; while those who didn't like it hated it most decisively.

"Processional" was a play that told a story of the life of miners in West Virginia, but was set in a framework of jazz, thus striving to weld the inner drama of American life with the reckless flippancy and gaiety of the jazz years.

That's Different, Says He

Important Question—Why is it that the fellow who is the most insistent on others paying him what they owe him seems to think he should have his own time to pay what he owes?—[illegible] News Herald.

SAWS
By Viola Brothers Shore

FOR THE GOOSE—

THE best pickin's for sensations is in family scraps.

Rottin' orchids smells worse than dandelions.

These sleeveless styles ain't so immoral as they're inconvenient. Us women's got nothin' to laugh up.

Tell me how many cooks a woman had in her life and I'll tell you some'n about her.

FOR THE GANDER—

Even a guy lookin' for a needle in a haystack ain't got such a hopeless job if he takes along a magnet.

The dancin' is always better on somebody else's floor.

If you ain't gotta work for food, you might have to do it for medicine.

When courtin' a widder, don't use the same kinda line her husband had. Comparisons ain't likely to be in your favor. Contrast might.
